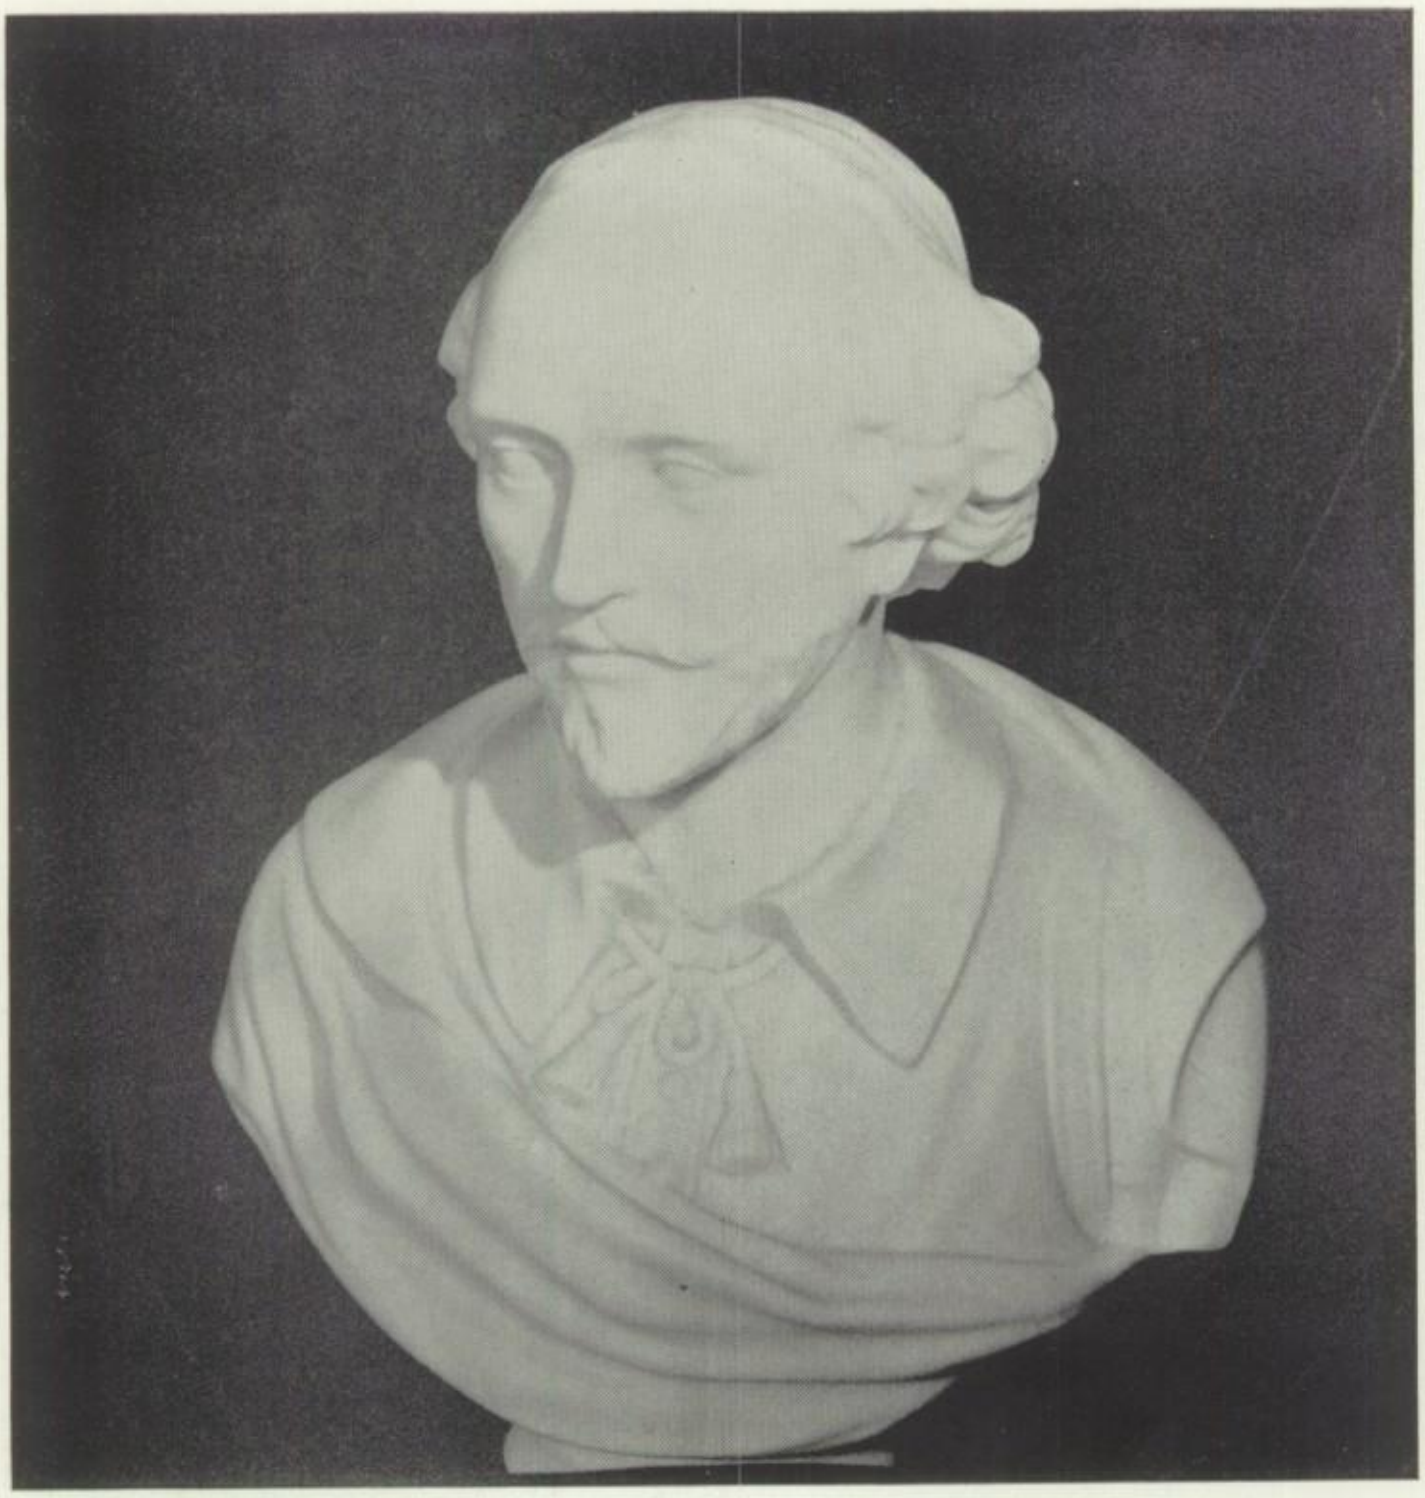
The Best of the Past

Is Part of our Present



"He was not of an age but for all time"

Walnut Hills has always been known for its emphasis on classical education. Through the six-year course each student acquires an appreciation of our heritage from the past, developing his best qualities and enabling him to select the best way of life. To us at Walnut Hills all that is fine in the tradition of classic civilization is typified by William Shakespeare. The undying universality of his works exemplifies the eternal freshness of this culture. The immortal bard represents clear thinking and the understanding of life and people that is the mark of the educated person. Indeed, as Ben Jonson so aptly expressed it, "He was not of an age but for all time."

MR. LEONARD P. STEWART
Principal

"Better a Little Chiding than a Great Deal of Heartbreak"

Everyone from effies to seniors has at some time known the fair and wise counsel of Mr. Leonard P. Stewart. While at first in awe of him, students soon discover his fine sense of humor and his interest in each one of them. Although his day is always very busy, if the student feels the need of advice about courses or the choice of a college, Mr. Stewart always finds time to discuss the problem and to give helpful advice. Through his untiring work, Walnut Hills has gained its reputation for high standards of education among the colleges all over the country.

Miss Marguerite Shigley, Mr. Stewart's efficient secretary, and her capable assistant, Mrs. Bertha Ewald, see to routine tasks which make school life run smoothly. If a college application blank needs to be filled or a program changed, or if there is a stamp sale or a collection to be taken care of, the staffs of the various offices are ready with their friendly and cheerful support. As a further help, Miss Marilyn Rohrmeier, the school treasurer, takes care of all money collected for various purposes during the year and handles the accounts for the clubs.

MISS OLIVE M. CLARKE
Dean of Girls

Miss Olive M. Clarke, dean of girls, helps all girls solve their problems, whether they concern discipline, school program, or the selection of a college. She also sponsors Big Sisters, Girls' League, Student Aid, and ushering for school productions. Her secretary, Mrs. Linnes Anderson, assists her in carrying out her busy plans.

MR. HENRY W. SCHROEDER
Assistant Principal

Assuming his administrative duties as assistant principal this year, Mr. Henry W. Schroeder has served as counselor to the boys and aide to Mr. Stewart. Besides his regular assignment, he has advised the Sophomore Hi-Y, the Student Court, and the Traffic Squad. The numerous details of his office are carried out by his secretary, Mrs. Magdalene Helwig.

ENGLISH at Walnut Hills involves far more than the proper juxtaposition of subject and verb or the simple following of the plot of a story. Becoming familiar with the great literature of the past and present, learning to appreciate and evaluate, and developing the power to express ideas clearly and well, the Walnut Hills students receives a background and training that enriches his whole life. The excellence of this training is due in large measure to the superiority of the staff of the English department. It may be Miss Esther Cahill, Miss Anne Sutherland, or Miss Eleanor McDevitt, who introduces the eager freshman to epic poetry in "Sohrab and Rustum" and to the greatness of Shakespeare in "A Midsummer Night's Dream." Perhaps it is Mrs. Katherine Lappa, Miss Etta O'Hara, Miss Mabel Schweikert, or Mr. Harold Inskeep, who helps the sophomore to an appreciation of "Julius Caesar" and to discriminate in choosing contemporary works in the study of "The Yearling".

"Words of Sweet Breath Composed

Mr. Harold Inskeep, Miss Mary Louise Schroth, Miss Mabel Schweikert, and Miss Anne Sutherland

The English student's horizon widens in the junior year as Miss Wilma Hutchison introduces him to the haunting beauty of "Green Mansions" and the compelling tragedy of vaulting ambition, "Macbeth". Also in this year, the pupils develop their narrative talents by writing their autobiographies. The senior year is indeed a climax of the achievements in English, with, perchance, Miss Beulah Purington or Miss Vivian Ross guiding the study of the Forsythes in "Man of Property" and of the unending complexities of the greatest of great, "Hamlet". The senior also learns to search out and organize reference material as he compiles the traditional source theme.

In addition to the formal English course, Miss Mary Louise Schroth's journalism classes learn techniques of journalistic writing and standards for judging newspapers. And through the speech courses offered by Miss Frieda Lotze and Mr. Wayne Gregory, the student develops ability to face an audience and present his views in a coherent and convincing manner. Also in this department Walnut Hills' famous Shakespearean players and debaters are trained.

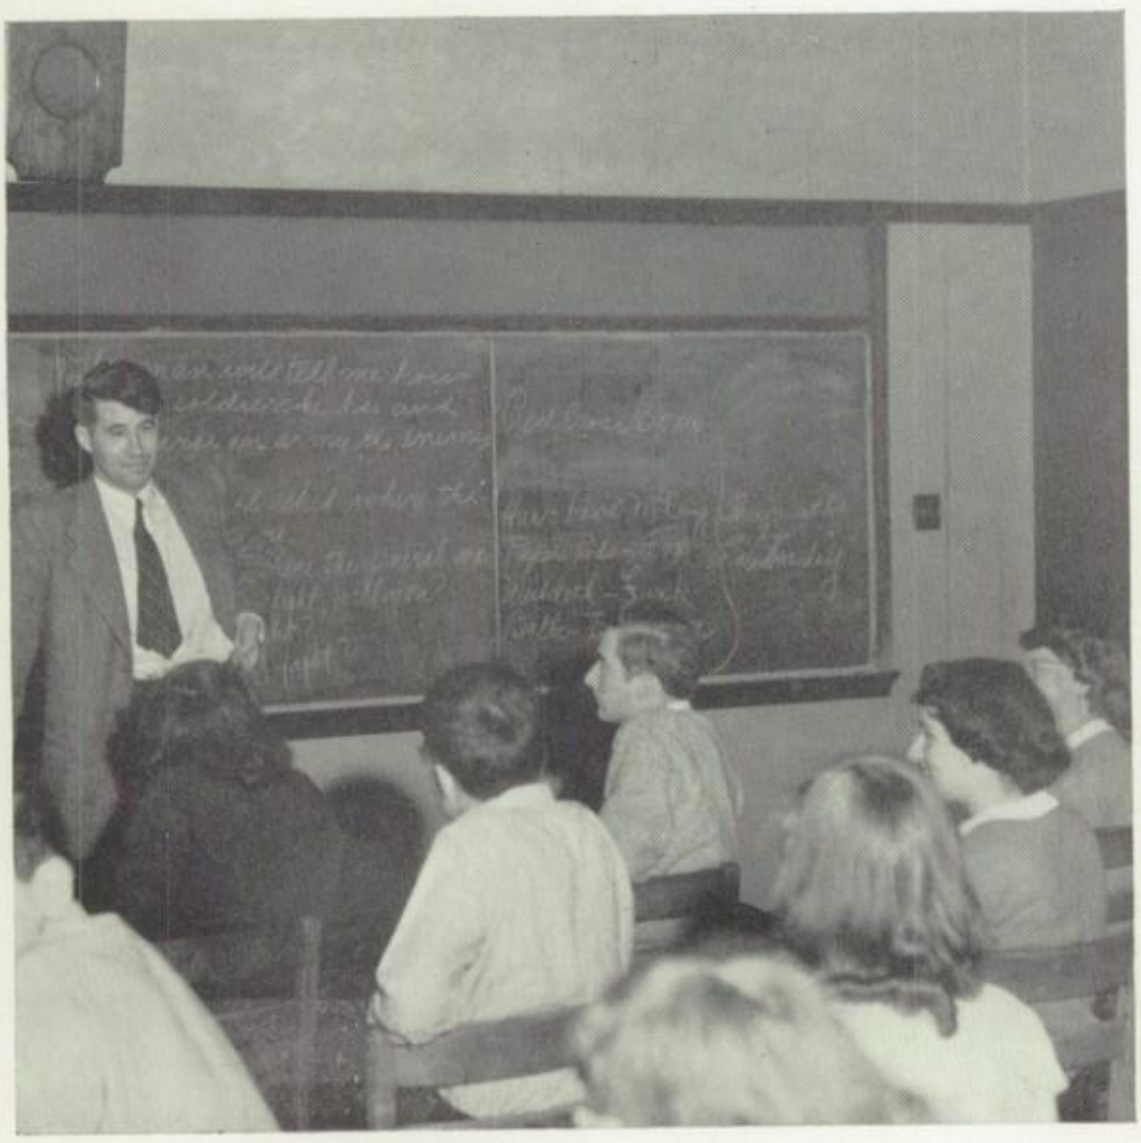
At Walnut Hills thorough familiarity with Latin is as evident as the knowledge pupils have of Shakespeare. Many students take advantage of the full six-year course. Syntax and short stories are studied in the seventh and eighth grades. In the freshman year students read about Caesar's campaigns. Stories of the lives of famous men and the orations of Cicero for the Manilian Law are subjects of study in Latin 10-IV. In the eleventh grade the students with deep interest in classics read Cicero's orations against Cataline and selections from the works of Ovid. This year they learn to scan Latin poetry and become familiar with poetic terms. The climax of the study of high school Latin comes in the senior year when Virgil's "The Aeneid" is studied.



This year the faculty of the Latin department was changed by the addition of Miss Bernice Bartlett, Mrs. Dixie Campbell, and Miss Rosemary Hope. As in the past, Mrs. Marie-Louise Creelman, Mrs. Madge Galbreath, Mrs. Laura Renfrow, and Miss Laura Riffe guided pupils in their study of Latin.

A Feast of Languages

Mrs. Marie-Louise Creelman, Mrs. Henrietta Ashbrook, and Miss Irene Steinau

Mrs. Henriette Ashbrook, who has been the French teacher at Walnut Hills for many years, also sponsors the French Club along with her teaching of French I, II, III, and IV. She explains that her aim is to teach the students how to read, write, and speak the modern languages as the natives do. Students read about the country, the artists, and the poets. Advanced students read a variety of French novels which give them a working mastery of the language. Both Mrs. Ashbrook and Miss Norma Stratemeyer teach German I-IV. Knowledge of this language is important for students who wish to enter the scientific fields.

Spanish, one of the most popular of the elective subjects at Walnut Hills, is taught by Miss Irene Steinau and Mrs. Marie-Louise Creelman. This year Miss Steinau, who is teaching Spanish I and II, is also the adviser of the Y-Teens. In the first few years of Spanish the students learn grammar and read about the country. Mrs. Creelman teaches Spanish II, III, and IV. The last two years of Spanish include many Spanish stories. Although many students of these modern languages may never use them in the countries in which they originated, they will find that their studies have enabled them to understand the cultures of Spain, France, and Germany more fully. Many pupils become so interested in modern languages that they continue to study them after they have left Walnut Hills.

The Thoughts and Deeds of Bygone Days

Man's progress from the ages of which we have no written record until the present day is revealed in courses in ancient and medieval, modern, and world history as well as in American history and government. Seventh- and eighth-grade social studies classes furnish a background in geography and history invaluable to students in their high school study. Open only to seniors is a course which consists of one semester each of economics and sociology. No student graduates without having attained a feeling of familiarity with the history of his own country and a fundamental knowledge of world events throughout the ages.

Greatly appreciated for their fascinating and factual presentation of social studies courses are Miss Elda Baechle, Mr. James Caldwell, Miss Margaret Dunphy, Mr. Raymond Farnham, Mr. Dean Giacometti, Miss Dorothy Levensohn, Miss Helen Sanford, and Miss Margaret Schwenker, who comprise the history department. These teachers are responsible for the fact that each student's study of history and related subjects not only helps him to appreciate more fully his heritage as a citizen of the United States and of the world, but gives him a better understanding of the literature he reads and a wider interest in art, music, and foreign languages.

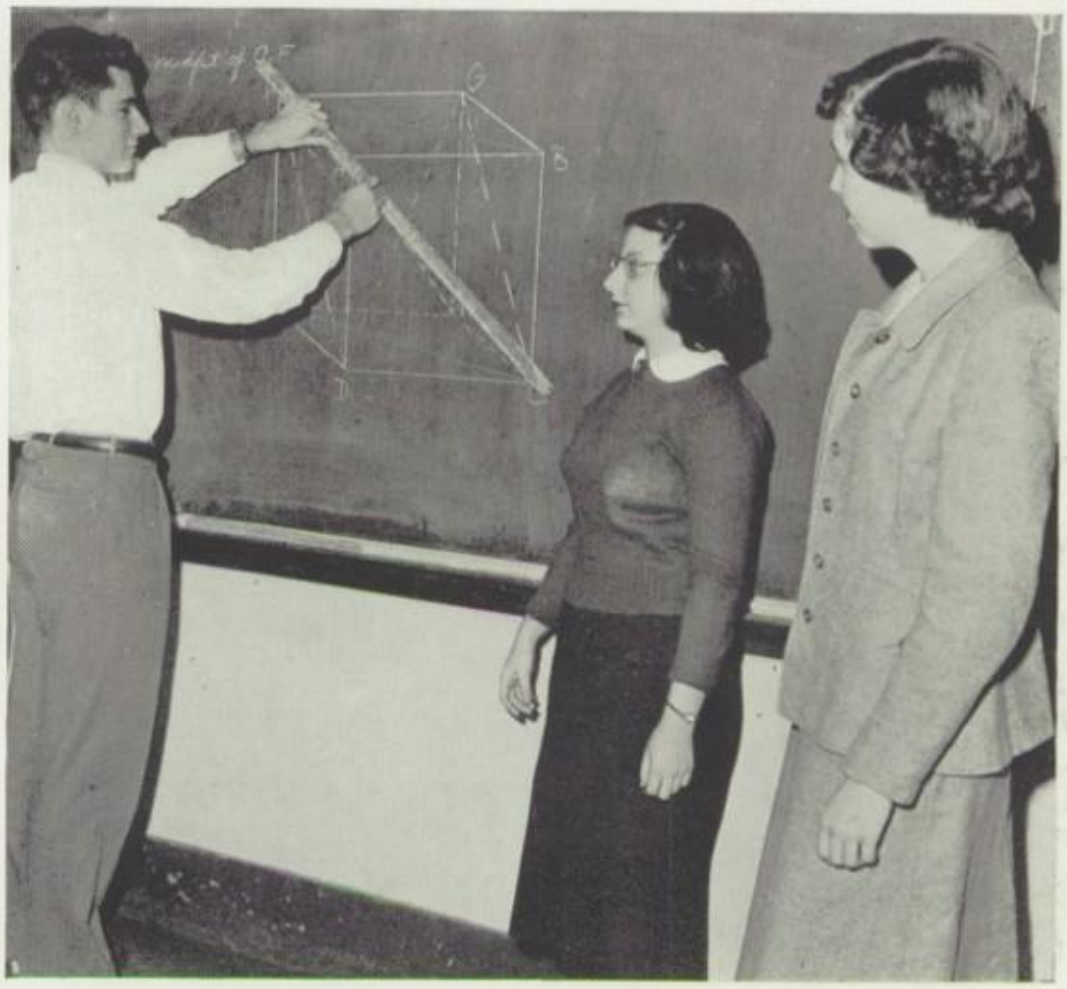
The Calculations of Clear Reasoning

MATHEMATICS is valuable not only for the necessary background it gives for many of the higher professions, but also for the excellent mental training and discipline it affords. At Walnut Hills both these aspects of the subject are thoroughly covered. Students owe this training to the mathematics department, headed by Miss Marie Becker and composed of Mr. J. Stanley Leeds, Miss Fannie Barnett, Mr. Howard Luedeke, Mr. Jacob Skilken, Mr. D. B. Carpenter, and Miss Ruth Hartlieb. In addition to their teaching duties, some of these instructors act as advisers to various extracurricular activities. Mr. Leeds is adviser to the Photography Club and the sophomore class; Mr. Luedeke, to the Sportscaster and athletics in general; and Mr. Carpenter, to the Junior Hi-Y.



In the seventh and eighth grades, pupils learn the basic principles of mathmatics. In their freshman year they acquire the fundamentals of algebra. Sophomores learn plane geometry and the patterns of reasoning it requires. Juniors delve more deeply into algebra. Seniors are initiated into the mysteries of trigonometry and solid geometry and they continue their study of algebra. Those who complete the six year courses have an enviable foundation for many types of professional training.

"Be Governed by Your Knowledge and Proceed"

Mr. Thomas Welsh, Miss Etta Elberg, Miss Christine Heis, and Dr. Ray Lambert

Aided by a completely equipped science department and a well-trained teaching staff, the science student at Walnut Hills is introduced to the discoveries and ideas of the great scientists of the past. In the chemistry lab, under the direction of Mr. Thomas Welsh and Mr. Jacob Skilkin, the student investigates the behavior of elements and compounds, while in physics he studies the various types of energy. Botany and biology are taught amid the living text of the school's miniature greenhouse containing many species of plant life. Turning to zoology the student can observe the marvels of living creatures through individual microscopes and gains further knowledge through the study of Miss Etta Elberg's wildlife museum.

Physiology taught by Miss Christine Heis consists of the study of the structure and care of the human body. Included in this subject is a course in first aid for which a Red Cross certificate is given. For the pupil who prefers not to specialize in one field, the general science course offers a broad view of the world of science as a whole. Here, as in all of the class in the science department, the budding scientist learns the scientific attitude of obtaining knowledge. He learns to follow the bard's advice to base judgment on known facts.

Students of Walnut Hills are fortunate in their opportunities for obtaining a cultural education. The art department, under Miss Laura Bellville, Mrs. Ida Carmichael, and Mr. Edward Dauterich, has taken the lead in drawing, ceramics, and painting and has trained many talented students.

The music department has shown its ability in the instrumental and vocal fields. Mrs. Nelle C. Murphy, director of A Cappella Choir, Mrs. Pansy Wildman, director of Junior Chorus, and Mr. Zaner Zerkle, director of the band and orchestra, have contributed greatly to many of the school's productions.

The library, too, is an excellent source for cultural advancement. The beautiful room with its quiet atmosphere has one of the finest collections of books of any high school in the Cincinnati school system. Miss Helen Carson and Miss Helen Wilkinson, the librarians, are always willing to help a student select whatever book or article is best suited to his particular needs. The library is the center of outside research in many courses as well as a place to spend an enjoyable study period or obtain a book for personal pleasure. Walnut Hills, because of its college preparatory nature, places great stress on subjects of cultural nature.

Home economics, a required study in the seventh and eighth grades, offers an incentive to future homemakers. Simple sewing procedures are taught early in the seventh grade. Later in the year the girls make an apron or skirt. During the eighth grade the girls become adept in the art of cookery. At the same time Miss Edna Moorman teaches the application of home economics to family living.

MANUAL training and mechanical drawing interrupt the hours of purely mental, acedemic study to give seventh and eighth grade boys valuable training in using their hands as well as their minds. Mr. Martin Perterson guides them to skillful use of lathes, drill presses, and other power tools. They learn a workman's pride through their accomplishments in wood-working and metal-work. Through mechanical drawing they learn an engineer's precision and attention to detail.

The Hand Grows Dexterous . . .

"By the grace of good luck, dual controls, and a well-oiled door handle on my side, I have escaped injury," said Mr. Harry Hannum. He was speaking in connection with behind-the-wheel driving, a new course instituted in 1948 in the Cincinnati public high schools. Three phases of driving are dealt with: mechanical, psychological, and emotional. The first concerns the actual manipulation of the car. Correct habits and attitudes, including hand signals and turns, are part of the psychological phase. The third, control of the emotions, is the realization of the potency of them.

Through games such as soccer and basketball, girls learn sportsmanship and team spirit, while swimming lessons enable them to be safe in water. Miss Mary V. Sellers and Mrs. Homer Jones, who took Miss Hanauer's place, teach both swimming and gym; Miss Myranda Gradolf devotes her time exclusively to gym classes. In addition, all three supervise the activities of GAA.

RIGHT: Miss Mary V. Sellers, Miss Myranda Gradolf, and Miss Frances Hanauer BELOW: Mr. G. Allen Davis, Mr. Carl Varrelman, Mr. Harry Hannum, and Mr. Willard Bass

Mr. Willard Bass, Mr. G. Allen Davis, Mr. Harry Hannum, and Mr. Carl Varrelmann put the boys through the paces on the long horse, buck, rings, and horizontal and parallel bars. In addition to developing coordination on such apparatus, students learn skill and sportsmanship in such games as volleyball and basketball. By use of diversified forms of calesthenics boys are also developed physically.

and the Body, Strong

Under the careful supervision and experienced guidance of the gym instructors, boys and girls at Walnut Hills find a welcome temporary release from mental work by physical activities. Into the forty-five minute gym period is telescoped the best type of gym work. At the beginning of the year everyone does the pentaphalon tests, which consist of push-up, pull-ups, sit-ups, and other forms of calisthenics. Then, later on during the year, each one is given another test of the same type to determine whether there is any marked improvement.

CLASS OFFICERS: Sally Ostrom, treasurer; Bob Wuerfel, president; Margaret Duffy, secretary; Mr. Wayne Greggory, adviser; and Bob Stargel, vice president

The members of the class of '49 honored Bob Wuerfel with the presidency for the school year of '48-49. Bob opened auditorium assemblies and presided over class meetings. He also appointed important class committees with the help of Mr. Wayne Gregory, class adviser.

To assist Bob Wuerfel in his job and fill in whenever necessary, Bob Stargel was chosen as vice president. In addition to his class office, Bob was also a member of the football team, track team, Hi-Y, Chemistry Club, Big Brothers, and Latin Club.

Margaret Duffy's job as secretary consisted of taking minutes of the class meetings and performing all other secretarial tasks which arose during her term.

Sally Ostrom, as treasurer, collected senior dues and any other money that happened to find its way into the class treasury. In addition to collecting and depositing the money, Sally kept accurate accounts.

"Parting Is Such Sweet Sorrow"

ALL SENIORS enjoyed certain distinctions this year — some privileges, others responsibilities. Envied by the rest of the school, they have enjoyed the front seats in the auditorium. Senior girls have had the honor of ushering at school productions, and some of the boys and girls have served as guides on Parents' Night. One of the lighter moments in the senior year has always been Baby Day, when dignified seniors reverted to their kindergarten days, dressing and playing as they imagined children would. Such things as having senior pictures taken, voting in the Popularity Contest, choosing the class gift, and attending class meeting are some of the tasks peculiar to members of the senior class. The climax of the year came in June at the Class Day assembly, the Honor Day assembly, and especially at graduation.

Seniors held the leading roles in "Romeo and Juliet" and took major parts in the "Walnuts of '49". In varsity athletics senior boys were often the stars and also the hard-working, less glorified players. In many instances the officers of the school's numerous clubs have been seniors who have gained experience through three or four years of membership. The editors-in-chief and many holders of other editorial positions of the school publications, the Chatterbox, the Remembrancer, the Gleam, the Sportscaster, and the Blue Book, have been members of the senior class.

Seniors have furnished leadership this year in the Student Council, where decisions concerning the welfare of the whole student body are made. Likewise, senior boys have served on the Student Court, and senior girls on Senior Council have been the leaders in girls' activities. Seniors composed the major part of the Big Brothers and Big Sisters, whose task it is to look after the new seventh graders, helping them to adjust properly to a new environment. This task was more difficult than usual this year because of the extremely large seventh grade class.

Many of the seniors have been in a breathless whirl of activities this year, but nevertheless they have profited from their classes. In some of these they have explored new fields such as chemistry or economics; in others they have delved deeper into subjects the study of which began in earlier years. Many members of the class have taken advantage of the opportunities for developing their talents in such fields as special art, special speech, band, orchestra, and the A Cappella Choir.

This year was the one they have been looking toward for five years. Soon they will be moving ahead toward greater goals; but they will always remember their first experience in taking responsibility and being leaders, those of their senior year at Walnut Hills.

Lofty Dignity Abandoned Dignity

"Last scene of all,

Shakespeare

Seniors at Walnut Hills take Shakespeare literally, and in May, when their high school days are drawing to a close, they enjoy dressing up and acting like children once again. This annual Baby Day is a highlight on the school calendar for underclassmen as well as the "babies".

CLASS OFFICERS: Alan Doelling, vice president; Neil Bortz, secretary; Jay Congelliere, president; Miss Vivian Ross, adviser; Jim Taaffe, treasurer

Wielding the gavel over meetings of the junior class was Jay Congelliere, all-around athlete, member of Student Court, and ex-officio member of Student Council, who proved himself to be a capable leader. When not absorbed with the duties of a class president, Jay spent part of his leisure gaining points for the Eagles' senior swimming team, collecting coins, and clipping items for his scrapbook.

Vice president of the class of '50 was Alen Doelling, whose interests also center around the field of sports. Alan played guard on the reserve basketball team and teed off for the golf team. Active not only in sports, this well-liked vice president took part in Latin Club and the Junior Hi-Y.

Equally at home on the football field, as a Radio Guild announcer, Big Brother, Student Court Member, and member of the Junior Hi-Y was class secretary, Neil Bortz. Neil topped all these extracurricular achievements with high grades in his academic work.

The responsibilities of handling all monetary matters were capably taken care of by Jim Taaffe, the treasurer, who was also a Big Brother and member of the reserve football team. Under the leadership of its competent, well-liked adviser, Miss Vivian Ross, the class completed a very successful year.

And Now, Tomorrow

WITH THE JUNIOR year, long anticipated by the class of '50, came new opportunities in both academic and extracurricular activities. It was a year highlighted by the "Peanuts" and the B. A. Prom.

Many new activities were open to the juniors, and their talents were welcomed by numerous groups. Eligible for the Senior and Junior Dramatic Club productions, they took an active part in all shows staged during the year. They played the main roles in "I Remember Mama". Their ability was also displayed in "Romeo and Juliet". A few eleventh-grade students were outstanding in the "Walnuts of '49".

This year the juniors entertained the school with their traditional production, the "Peanuts of '49". Work on the show began as soon as school opened, and after months of preparation the highly amusing and entertaining production was presented.

Many members of the class of '50 exhibited an interest in music. Some took part in the A Cappella Choir and Glee Club, while others played in the band and orchestra.

Junior athletes supported the various teams. Their participation in all sports afforded experience which will be necessary when, as next year's seniors, they will lead the school in athletics.

In student government juniors gained valuable practice. Well-represented on Student Council, they learned more about democracy through self-government. In addition, several boys became members of Student Court.

A considerable portion of the staffs of different school publications was composed of juniors. They devoted a great deal of time and energy to the Chatterbox, Remembrancer, Gleam, Sportscaster, and Blue Book. Those considered outstanding in this field were honored by election to Quill and Scroll.

The artistically inclined students were afforded wide opportunity for practicing and improving their skills. Their creative ability was shown in the posters, sets, and decorations made for school activities.

Juniors belonged to the majority of the school's clubs. As officers of some, and regular members of others they conrtibuted time and ideas to make the various organizations successful.

The long-awaited Prom came, and juniors were at last included. Experienced by their sophomore dance, they co-operated with the seniors to present a memorable evening.

All these extra activities did not divert the attention of the eleventh graders from their all-important studies. They managed to maintain their usual high standards while doing so much for both college and career.

In English they became further acquainted with Shakepeare and other great authors.

CLASS OFFICERS: Phyllis Root, vice president; Joe Siphron, president; Donna Click, secretary; Mr. Stanley Leeds, adviser; Barry Cholak, treasurer

The tall, good-loking president of the sophomore class is Joe Siphron. Joe's leadership is established among his classmates partly because of his experience on the Student Council. Joe is also a member of A Cappella Choir, for music is his greatest interest.

A girl who seems to be at home in everything she does is blue-eyed, blond Phyllis Root. Besides being vice-president of her class, she is secretary of the Debate Club, treasurer of the Current History Club, and a regular member of the honor roll.

Everyone at Walnut Hills is familiar with Donna Click's dancing ability. Secretary Donna is an asset not only in musical shows but as a member of the Remembrancer and Gleam staffs.

Friendly Barry Cholak was elected treasurer of his class. Well-liked by his classmates, he was chosen to be on the Student Council in grades eight and nine, and was a member of the freshman football team last year.

Mr. Stanley Leeds serves the sophomore class adviser.

The Turning Point

SOPHOMORES, having become thoroughly acquainted with Walnut Hills' procedure and tradition, were ready to take the responsibility of becoming members of the upper school. They felt that now they were and integral part of the school's extracurricular activities and that they were beginning to command more respect as individual personalities with recognized aptitudes in various fields.

The first contribution of the sophomores as a class was made when the successful and entertaining sophomore dance was held at Walnut Hills. It was at this point that the pupils of the tenth grade showed that they could combine their talents and co-operate in such a fashion as to provide an exceedingly enjoyable evening for a large group of Walnut Hills students and their friends.

Although sophomores were not yet filling high positions such as club presidencies, editorships, and leading dramatic roles, they were taking part in all of the musical, artistic, dramatic, journalistic, and athletic acticities of the school and preparing for the more important posts they will someday hold.

Some sophomores had parts in the Junior Dramatic Club's presentation of "I Remember Mama", and others helped entertain the school in the annual performance, "Walnuts of '49", and the less formal, but enjoyable, Hi-Y "Minstrels". Members of the class played in the band and orchestra or sang with the Girls' Glee Club and the A Cappella Choir. The Remembrancer, Chatterbox, Blue Book and Gleam benefitted from the assistance of some of the sophomores who sold advertisements, wrote copy, and performed a wide variety of tasks connected with these publications. The class was represented on the reserve football, basketball, and baseball teams by boys who had hopes of becoming the stars of the school's varsity teams during their junior and senior years. The Sophomore Hi-Y, in addition to its regular activities, sponsored the collection of books for the marine hospital at Carville, Louisiana.

The second year of high school offered wider choice of subjects than students had previously been given. Some continued their study of Latin while others began to learn a modern language, becoming interested in the languages that grew out of Latin—French and Spanish, or in German, which was completely different. A few proceeded with their second year of a modern language begun when they were freshmen. Many took modern or world history; others explored the field of science.

CLASS OFFICERS: Joe Henninger, president; Betty Hellman, vice president; Dolly Ross, secretary; Morton Zeff, treasurer; Miss Rosemary Hope, adviser

The freshman ship of state is well steered by its blond president, Joe Henninger with the help of the class adviser, Miss Rosemary Hope. Besides holding this office, Joe is active in the Bowling Club, Stamp Club, Student Aid, and Freshman Choir. He is also a veteran of the "Bluebird" and "I Remember Mama".

Betty Hellman, the vivacious vice president, has filled every minute of her extra time with G. A. A., Chatterbox, Gleam, and Blue Book, Music Appreciation, Latin Club, Current History, and, finally, the "Minstrels".

Petite and blond Dolly Ross is the able secretary for the freshman class, and she, too, engages in a wealth of activities. Among them are G. A. A., Glee Club, and Dance Club, and on the literary side, Chatterbox and the Blue Book.

The tall, dark treasurer, Morton Zeff, who was on the honor roll his first two years at Walnut Hills, also takes part in Latin Club and Freshman Choir, and plays on the freshman basketball team.

A Beginning and a Promise

A FRESHMAN year is, in many ways, a beginning. Emerging from the lower school the class of '52 at last felt themselves a real part of high school life, under the leadership of their class officers. In the classrooms they studied subjects which were for the first time partly elective. Latin 9-III introduced them to Caesar and an exciting tale of battles and marching legions, while in the field of history they discovered the ancient worlds. For those whose interests lay in the field of science, the course in biology opened a new world of wonders. "Arithmetic" now became algebra, and freshmen talked importantly of equations and the immemorial a, b, c. Study in speech began for the future orators and dramatists of Walnut Hills. English I revealed to them the greatness of Shakespeare as they read A Midsummer Night's Dream.

The freshmen discovered new experiences outside of the classroom, too. They found organizations suited to their interests and talents, becoming active participants. All the varied activities of Walnut Hills gave the freshmen valuable experience and in return received their eagerness and enthusiasm. Dramatic and musical talent in the class of '52 also found its place and freshmen were to be seen in the Hi-Y "Minstrels", the Junior Dramatic Club presentations, and the Revue.

CLASS LEADERS: John Bennett, Jane Gillespie, Jan Marx, and Paul Vitz

Although the class of '53 had no officers, it did elect four of its most outstanding members to represent it. These students honored by their class were John Bennett, Jane Gillespie, Jan Marx, and Paul Vitz.

Of many and varied interests, these pupils have been active in many phases of Walnut Hills life. John was fascinated by basketball and other sports as well as by sciences such as chemistry and physics. Having taken part in "I Remember Mama," Junior Latin Club, G.A.A., and Junior Chorus, Jane also found time to care for her pets, collect stamps, and enjoy sports. Jan participated in both the Hi-Y Minstrels and "Walnuts of '49," as well as Junior Latin Club and sports. As captain of room 224's intramural football team, Paul displayed his fondness for athletics, which was equalled by his love of nature, particularly birds and insects, and his stamp collection.

Truly representative of their class, these pupils help to show the school what may be expected of it in the future.

Prelude to New Horizons

THE EIGHT-grade year at Walnut Hills was a real thrill. No longer were the "e-flats" the youngest class in the school. They had moved on to make room for a new seventh-grade class, which they teased unmercifully for a few weeks to make up for the teasing they themselves had received a year ago. They were almost in high school now and were beginning to consider the courses they would want to take next year and in the year to follow. The eighth-grade course of study was quite similar to that of the seventh grade. The students continued their study of Latin, learning basic rules and vocabulary and, for the first time, reading myths in Latin. Mathematics 8 gave them fundamental principles and preparation for high school mathematics courses. Social studies acquainted them with the civilizations of America and other countries. English introduced them to new authors and new literary forms and increased their knowledge of grammar. In gym classes they learned sportsmanship and developed strength, while in music classes they learned to sing together in harmony. Home economics and industrial arts classes provided them with experiences and skills necessary for worthy home membership. They found many activities open to lower school students. Some of those with musical talent sang with Junior Chorus or played in the band or orchestra. Boys athletically inclined took part in the intramural football and basketball games. Girl athletes participated in the activities of the G. A. A., playing soccer, volleyball, basketball, and baseball or swimming in contests. E-flat girls also attended Girls' League, and some of them put on a program for one of the meetings. The Junior Latin Club provided interesting and educational diversion for many members of the class. A chosen few represented their classmates in Junior Student Council, where they received valuable experience for future leadership.

The e-flats were inspired with considerable school spirit. At football, basketball, and baseball games they helped cheer Walnut Hills on to victory or consoled the team in defeat. Some of them played in exhibition games during interludes of varsity basketball games, looking forward to the time when they will be the backbone of these teams. Eighth graders were an enthusiastic part of the audience of such productions as "The Man Who Came to Dinner" and "Walnuts of '49". Those who did not participate in the Spring and Instrumental Concerts listened with pleasure.

CLASS LEADERS: Richard Jaeger, Edith Graller, David Buss, and Nancy Holmes

Dave Buss, Edith Graller, Nancy Holmes, and Richard Jaeger were chosen by their fellow seventh-graders to represent their class, which had no officers, as four of its most outstanding personalities. These pupils, recognized by their classmates as leaders, are among the many members of the lower school who will some day hold positions of responsibility and be depended upon and looked up to by the rest of the school. Formerly of Kilgour School, Dave enjoys collecting pictures of dogs and horses in his spare time. President of her homeroom and enthusiastic Girls League member, Edith, of Avondale School, hopes to remain on the honor roll. Also from Avondale was Richard, whose hobby is collecting coins. Nancy, member of Junior Chorus and alternate member of Junior Student Council, came from Pleasant Ridge School. As effies these boys and girls started careers which will lead them, and many like them, to great heights, both in school and extracurricular activities, while they are at Walnut Hills.

On the Threshold of the Future

EFFIES HAD an entirely new experience at Walnut Hills this year. They came from district schools where everyone was more or less a familiar neighbor, to a school where the boy in the first seat may live ten miles from the girl in the second. They came into an atmosphere which was quite mature compared to the one to which they were accustomed; and in this atmosphere they have taken their first important step toward maturity. At first Walnut Hills seemed big and strange to them, but as they learned to know it better, they began to feel themselves a part of the school and its activities. Perhaps their first day was the worst as the bewildered seventh graders were pushed and shoved along halls larger and far more spacious than the ones in which they had spent their first six years. Accompanied by shouts of "Effie, effie", they stumbled from class to class, trying hard to fit into this new school to which they had come. When classes were over that first day, most of them rushed home, proudly carrying their Latin book and full of tales of the swimming pool and the beautiful library in their new Walnut Hills High. But in a few weeks the taunts of "Effie" could be heard less frequently, and the seventh graders settled down to study and to keep up with the high standards required by their new school. It was difficult for many of them. Some became discouraged and returned to their old schools. Others saw their grades dropping and began to study harder than they ever had before. But most of them came through with flying colors. Then after that first hectic marking period had passed, they began to look around, began to realize that there were other interests in Walnut Hills besides their studies.

Sports attracted the attention of some. For the boys, the intramural football and basketball games were an opportunity for fun and for the beginning of the training which has given Walnut Hills a good standing in high school athletics. The girls found activities of the Girls Athletic Association especially planned for the lower school and began to gather the credit and experience which will make some of them leaders in girls' athletics in the years to come. Those effies who were interested in music became part of the band and orchestra or sang with the Junior Chorus. Many girls became active members of the Girls' League. And many more found interest in the Junior Latin Club.

In addition to these activities in which they could take an active part, the effies discovered there were many programs put on by their schoolmates for them to see. So seventh graders turned out en masse to see the dramatic and musical productions.

"Two households, both alike in dignity,
In fair Verona, where we lay our scene . . ."
With these words, the curtain rose on the twenty-seventh annual Shakespearean play, "Romeo and Juliet". The tragic feud of the Montagues and the Capulets and the misadventures of the young "star cross'd" lovers unrolled before the appreciative audience, as Joyce Foster and Jack Callaghan together with an excellent supporting cast brought the story to life on the Walnut Hills High School stage. Miss Frieda Lotze and the cast were well repaid for the long and painstaking rehearsals, for this year's performance won great acclaim, indicating that, as always, the Shakespearean play was the highlight of the Walnut Hills dramatic season.

The Junior Dramatic Club delighted its public with a charming and refreshing presentation of John Van Druten's popular and moving "I Remember Mama". The excellent cast, directed by Mr. Wayne Gregory and including Anne Buenger as "Mama", gave convincing portrayals of the heart-warming characters. The play depicts a lovable family of Swedish immigrants in San Francisco during the early part of the twentieth century. Delightful comedy and heart-rending pathos and the dreams of youthful ambition made this play an unforgettable experience for all who saw it.

Gay Evening of Flashing Beauty,

ALNUTS! That is the rallying cry of Walnut Hills High School. It means songs, dances, comedy, drama . . . everything . . . to the students. The faculty director this year was Mr. Zaner Zerkle; student directors were Doug Cramer and Harvey Schadler with Mr. Gregory as faculty adviser to the continuity. Combining the talent of many students, "Walnuts" had a successful three-night stand. Among the show's musical numbers were folk songs and tunes from "Show Boat."

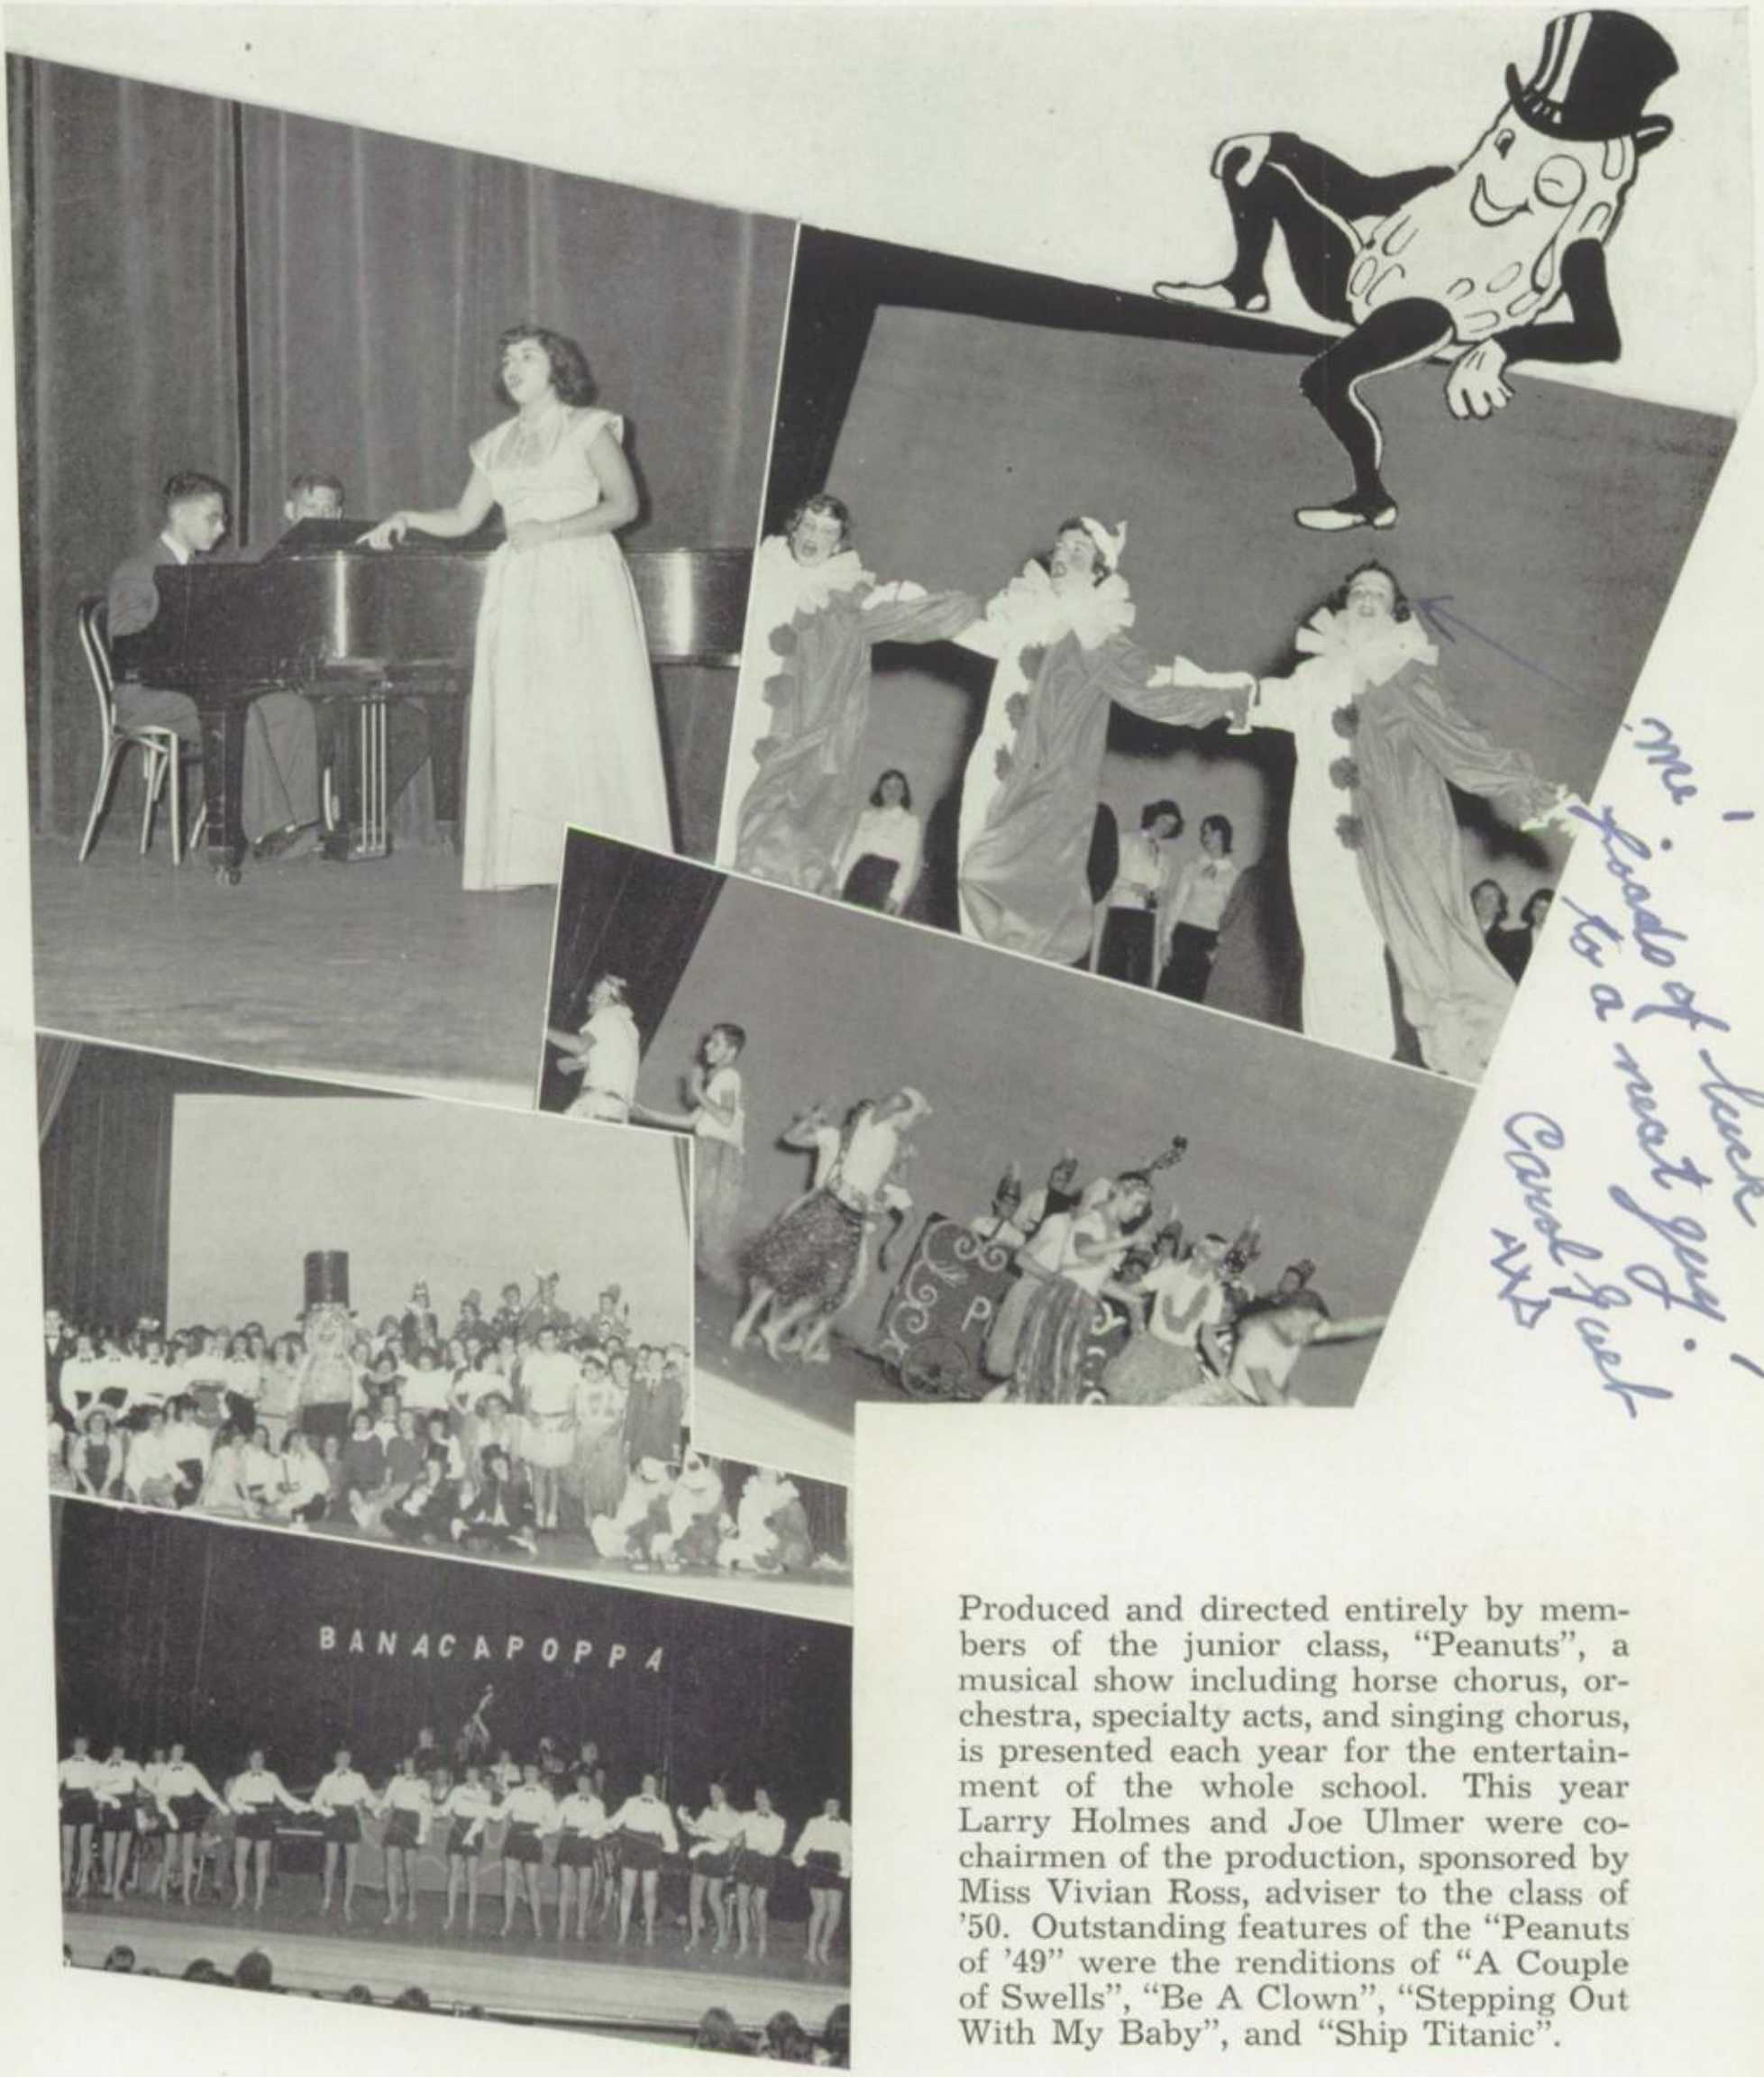
Sparkling Wit, and Lilting Music

Continuity of "Walnuts of '49" revolved around a comparison of life from 1849 to 1949. The central characters, two down-and-out vaudevillians who answered an ad placed in a paper by a gangster, are given knock-out drops. In their delirium they see themselves as different persons including Indian fighters and proprietors of a barber shop, show boat, and speakeasy. At the climax they free themselves from their captors, capture them in turn, and become national heroes.

"Some Entertainment of Time, Some

Every minstrel show can boast of a swing band, a singing chorus, specialties, and end men, but only at Walnut Hills does such a production include a charming Miss Hi-Y, a real old-fashioned "meller-dramer", and a style show with lovely, curvaceous models (Come on, fellas, tell us the secret of your charm!) As an added attraction, a faculty quartet displayed vocal ability which very near brought down the house. The "Hi-Y Minstrels", with its music, jokes, and dances was a tremendous success in the best minstrel tradition.

Show in the Posterior of This Day"



Produced and directed entirely by members of the junior class, "Peanuts", a musical show including horse chorus, orchestra, specialty acts, and singing chorus, is presented each year for the entertainment of the whole school. This year Larry Holmes and Joe Ulmer were co-chairmen of the production, sponsored by Miss Vivian Ross, adviser to the class of '50. Outstanding features of the "Peanuts of '49" were the renditions of "A Couple of Swells", "Be A Clown", "Stepping Out With My Baby", and "Ship Titanic".

Unseen but Indispensable

SCENERY PAINTERS: L. Cooper, A. Moss, J. Potts

Those students seen walking around the halls after school in paint-splattered shirts and jeans or dirty overalls belong to two groups important to the annual school productions.

The Scenery Painters, under the direction of Mr. Edward Dauterich, are responsible for the sets and backdrops for all school productions. In addition, they plan the decorations for the B. A. Prom. For this dance they transform the Walnut Hills gym into a world of fantasy and delight.

However, scenery must be constructed before it can be painted. This task is the responsibility of the Stage Crew. This group, under the supervision of Miss Frieda Lotze, is in charge of all construction work, lighting, curtains, set-changing, and other miscellaneous problems involved in school productions and assemblies. These boys all have specific positions and duties which they are trained to perform so that everything moves swifty and smoothly during a production. These boys must operate footlights, arc lights, and curtains, and must set up and change scenery and props. At all times they follow established regulations and are prepared for any emergency. This year Ralph Weil, stage manager, and Everett Hobart, chief electrician, planned the work of the crew in detail.

Behind every glittering success presented on the Walnut Hills stage there is a little-lauded, hard-working group of students who perform the less glamorous, but necessary tasks connected with dramatic productions. The responsibility for assembling and caring for the large variety of properties rests on the property committee, usually consisting of speech students appointed by Miss Lotze and Mr. Gregory. Another committee vital to the success of a performance is that consisting of special speech students who have been taught the rudiments of theatrical make-up. Under their skillful hands young thespians assume entirely different features. In addition, publicity is performed by a student committee.

Motion Picture Operators are boys in the senior high school who have been trained in the mechanism and operation of the motion picture projectors. Mr. Welsh, adviser of the group, gives a course of instruction for interested boys; and after their training they receive a license entitling them to operate the machine. The licensed operators are called on during their study halls to run the projectors for teachers who are showing films. Besides running films for class instruction, the boys operate the projector for the noon movies and for the movie series.

Two Councils of Just and

STUDENT government is an outstanding feature of the extracurricular program at Walnut Hills. The Student Council, principal body in this government, meets every other Monday after school, under the capable guidance of Miss Helen Sanford. Through this group, students learn the principles and practical application of democracy through actual experience. With Jack Avril as president, Charles Hebble as vice president, and Jean Mehlhope as secretary, the Council itself consists of students elected from the upper school plus six ex-officio members: the editor of the Chatterbox, the president of Senior Council, the president of Student Court, the president of the senior class, and the president of the junior class. The executive committee is composed of the exofficio members plus six students elected from the Council body. By far the most important event of the year was the part that Walnut Hills and Jack Avril played in the organization of the National Association of Student Councils. Avril was elected president of the Association, and Walnut Hills became host to the National convention, June 20 to 22.

The Student Council throughout the year acaccomplished many advancements for the improvement of the school. As usual it sponsored the March of Dimes collection, in which Walnut Hills surpassed all other schools in the city in the amount collected. Student Council also succeeded in getting the student parking lot repaired; enforced stairway rules; and studied a plan to limit extracurricular activities of students by using a point system whereby students would receive points for each activity and could not exceed a given number of points. A further project undertaken this year was the drive to encourage neatness among the students in regard to the school building and school grounds. Aiding the Council in these problems were the various committees under chairmen Crane DeCamp, Charles Docter, John Whitney, and Margaret Duffy.

The smooth efficiency with which the lower school is run is due in large measure to the efforts of the Junior Student Council. Under the able guidance of Miss Helen Carson, the Council investigates the problems of the junior high school, seeking the approval of the Senior Student Council on its decisions. Seats in the Council are held by students of the seventh and eighth grades. All of the members attend the regular meetings on alternate Mondays, while several serve as members of the Senior Council as well, so that they can present a complete picture of the school scene to the younger group.

Led by the vice president of the Senior Council, the Junior Student Council as their project for the year attempted to raise the number of Victory Stamps sold at Walnut Hills. Cards were placed in each homeroom reminding students of Stamp Day.

Lauded Leaders of Affairs

Two unique student leadership groups are Miss Clarke's Senior Council and the Student Court, guided by Mr. Schroeder. Both of these committees have rendered noteworthy service in guiding and governing the school as a whole.

Senior Council is made up of five senior girls chosen on the basis of character, leadership, service to the school, and ability to provide a link between Miss Clarke and the girls of the school.

Council holds luncheon meetings twice a week to discuss and advise on girls' interests and plans in the school. Each member of the council has a position as chairman of Big Sisters, of ushers for all school productions, of student help in the dean's office, of weekly student aid collection, or of the school's Red Cross activities.

SENIOR COUNCIL—CLOCKWISE: S. Ostrom, N. Haas, Miss Olive M. Clarke, dean of girls, A. Reisner, M. Duffy, J. Woeste.

In order to interpret and help enforce the rules of the school, seven upperschool boys—four seniors and three juniors—are chosen to serve on the Student Court. Selected on basis of leadership, dependability, and school spirit, the boys act as a judicial body in cases of discipline. The boys pronounce judgment which to them seems most fair in interpreting the governing laws set forth for the student body by its own elected representatives. This intelligent and impartial dispensing of justice has won for the Court the sincere respect of the entire school.

"Fasten Your Ear on My Advisings"

Under the guidance of Mr. Edward Dauterich, the Big Brothers work and co-operate with the effie boys, helping them adjust to the new school and furnishing information and procedure to them. The Big Brothers are junior and senior boys who are outstanding leaders in their class and have an average of 85 or better. Each Big Brother has several boys from the seventh grade assigned to him; it is each one's duty to give assistance to the younger boys, either in academic subjects or in general information about the school. This year's president of Big Brothers is John Goldsberry.

Each year Walnut Hills welcomes the new girls through the Big Sisters. A group of senior girls is selected by Miss Olive M. Clarke to aid newcomers through the first bewildering weeks and to offer advice and assistance throughout the year. On the first Friday of the school year the traditional welcome party is given for the "little sisters" where, in an atmosphere of informality, new girls get to know one another. Big Sisters also encourage their little sisters to participate in school activities and to maintain scholastic requirements. Big Sisters attend periodic meetings, discussing problems with their adviser and planning parties at Christmas time and in spring.

Sisterhoods of Friendship and

The Girls' League, sponsored by Miss Olive M. Clarke, is open to all girls in the school. The monthly meetings provide an opportunity for girls, who are unable to be in the large productions of the dramatic department, to take part in revues, plays, and talent shows. Each grade works under the guidance of a senior cap leader who helps the younger girls with programs and with a project for the Junior Red Cross. This year, Girls' League presented fifty pair of yarn dolls to the Red Cross to be given to orphanages and children's homes along with over a dozen stuffed sock dolls. Thus under the capable leadership of Jean Woeste, president, Girls' League has served both the school and the community.

Y-Teens offers an opportunity to all sophomore, junior, and senior girls to participate in its interesting and far-reaching program. Each member becomes a junior member of the YWCA, which founded the club to further its ideals of wholesome co-operation and friendship among the girls. Although it was founded many years ago, Y-Teens has still remained true to this purpose. All activities are handled by committees, which are under the guidance of Miss Irene Steinau. The club pin consists of a circle, signifying the world in which the girl lives, surrounded by a triangle symbolizing physical, mental, and spiritual growth. Y-Teens' biggest accomplishment this year was the Hobo Hop; but they have also made favors for the orphan home and Christmas decorations for the underprivileged, and have collected Red Cross money under the leadership of the capable officers: Carole Pistler, president; Ardyce Reisner, vice president; Jeanne Woeste, recording secretary; Elise Schwartz, corresponding secretary; and Nancy Geist, treasurer.

"For by Thy Gracious, Golden . . . Gleam"

THE Gleam is the oldest publication at Walnut Hills. Soon after the school was founded in 1895, the students undertook the project of publishing a school literary magazine. Since there was no other school publication, the Gleam served as newspaper, annual, and magazine. It was published once a month, and the last edition of every year was considered the annual. When the Chatterbox came into existence, the Gleam soon became an auxiliary to the newspaper. Now published three times annually, the Gleam has become an illustrated literary magazine, the only one of its kind in the public schools of Cincinnati. This year saw the adoption of a "Junior Gleam", a section of the regular issue dedicated to the literary efforts of the seventh and eighth graders.

The Remembrancer, the proud record of the school year, is a familiar symbol to the students of Walnut Hills. They eagerly await its appearance each June, anxious to page through it, to discuss it, to collect the traditional autographs. The Remembrancer's debut is awaited even more impatiently by the staff, for it is for them the culmination of long months of planning and hard work. The first steps are taken during the summer as the editors struggle over the problems of theme and layout, and devise arguments to convince the city's merchants of the advantages of annual advertising. With the coming of fall, the staff, plans for the dummy completed, returns to school to plunge into the the work of scheduling pictures, revising, rewriting, and meeting demanding deadlines. And at last the long weeks of inspirations and disappointments, late hours and decisions bring their reward as the first copy in its brave blue cover is proudly displayed.

THE CHATTERBOX

SURSUM AD SUMMUM

Vol. 1, No. 1 WALNUT HILLS HIGH SCHOOL Sept.-June, 1949

"Our News Shall Go Before Us"

Every Tuesday homerooms are abuzz with the sale of the Chatterbox. Each student has his favorite section; the seventh graders look first for "Junior Hi-Lites." The sports page is the immediate interest to the senior boys.

This paper is the result of a week's hard work. Monday, reporters check the Chatterbox bulletin board to find their assignments. They gather their articles, due on Wednesday. Then each article is assigned to a typist. Meanwhile the editors have been planning the dummy designating a certain portion for each article, picture, or ad.

This staff must see not only that all copy is included but also that it is arranged in a form pleasing to the reader's eye. Advertisements must be kept up to date since they are an important source of revenue for the paper.

To the editorial editor falls the responsibility for writing the articles which seek to guide the student in better conduct and ideals. The sports staff must attend each athletic function in which Walnut Hills is represented and report the outcome of the event.

Articles which are not strictly news, such as those on the weekly symphony concerts and on various colleges throughout the country, are written by the feature writers.

The final work on each paper is done by the circulation staff. Its manager supervises the distribution of the newspapers and collects the money from subscribers. Overseeing and coordinating the work of all these staffs is the work of the editor-in-chief and his associate editor.

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF, J. Avril.

Chronicles of Sports and Sportsmen

The Sportscaster was founded two years ago because of a need for a publication larger than the one-page, one-cent, mimeographed "Eagles' Eye", which gave the names and numbers of players on both football teams and a few cheers. Now the Sportscaster is an eight-page manual sold at many games as well as at school. Each issue contains interviews with two players and their pictures, a page of predictions by students and faculty, and some cartoons or cheers in addition to the vital statistics of all players on both teams.

This year the Sportscaster made approximately two hundred dollars. The original "Eagles' Eye" was sold to make money for the athletic fund alone, but the larger Sportscaster divides its profit equally between the athletic fund and the Chatterbox.

The staff, under the direction of Dick Kountz as editor, succeeded in putting out issues of the Sportscaster for all the Eagles' home games and several other games during the football season. Mr. Howard Luedeke is financial adviser for this publication.

Handbook of People, Places, and Procedure

The Blue Book has been labelled "The Encyclopedia Britannica of Walnut Hills", for this manual gives a complete picture of all school activities, organizations, and other phases of school life. Newcomers to Walnut Hills find this book a great aid; the detailed diagram of the building, a concise and accurate layout of the three floors, is especially helpful to the new pupil during the first bewildering days. However, even a senior who has attended this school six years can scan the book to learn something he didn't know about Walnut Hills, its traditions, its faculty, or its history.

This year's Blue Book, a revision of the 1940 edition, was planned to give the students a valid guide to the school as well as a concrete method of learning the details and qualifications of all activities sponsored by the school. Much of the work involved in checking details, writing copy, and preparing the material for the printer was done by the able and willing staff during the summer.

APPY hours spent in the Chatterbox and Remembrancer rooms and the sense of a job well done are culminate by election to Quill and Scroll. To be eligible for membership, the junior or senior must show exceptional ability on one of the publications staffs and must maintain an average of 85 or above.

No greater scholastic honor than election to Cum Laude can be conferred upon a Walnut Hills student. As a token of membership a pin is awarded on admission, either at midyear with an average of 92 or at the close of the senior year with an average of 89.5 or above. This honor provides students with a goal toward which to work.

Everyone knows that the B. A. Prom is one of the most exciting and most eagerly anticipated events of the school year, but few realize that it is something unique among Cincinnati high schools. Most proms are held in one of the large hotels and are managed by a small group of students; at Walnut Hills the prom is a school "production," and its success is the result of the careful planning and hard work of many committees.

The two co-chairmen, Chuck Hebble and Jim Taaffe, chosen by the officers of the junior and senior classes, were the final authority on all problems and plans. Working with them were the committees for decorations, business, invitations, publicity, entertainment, refreshments, and flowers. The prom wasn't all work; even the planning was fun; and the final wonderful night of the prom was worth all the hours of preparation. It was a wonderful B. A. Prom, wasn't it!

Chemistry always has been of great interest to students aspiring to attend some higher institution of learning. Chemistry Club is open to all students taking chemistry as a subject. The club, advised by Mr. Thomas Welsh, meets every other Wednesday afternoon, alternating with the Current History Club. At the meetings students are given opportunity to delve more deeply into those phases of chemistry that cannot be elaborated upon during class. In going into these fields, individual students perform experiments before the groups, or some outstanding speaker demonstrates such topics as liquid air or infra-red photography. This year the club went on several tours of the city to see the theoretical ideas of chemistry in actual commercial use. Among the places visited were the water works in California, Ohio, and a local soap company where the members observed methods of manufacturing soap and cosmetics. The officers of XEM, as Chemistry Club is otherwise known, were John Ehrenfeld, president; Al Byers, vice president; Moynan Coe, secretary; and Nancy Barrows, treasurer.

The Radio Club at Walnut Hills provides stimulating diversions to pupils whose interest lies in the radio field. Under the direction of Dr. Ray Lambert, the Radio Club makes a study of radar and electronics. Since the end of the war, many new fields have been opened which demand the attention of club members. Such a new field is television.

Interest in the radio field may develop as a hobby or as future life work. In either case, the Radio Club teaches the necessary facts about radio's operation and construction, and is a start for students in the coming world of radio. Especially practical is their operation of a ham station with the call letters W8QIH.

The official name of the station is the Richard Sloane Memorial Station in honor of a past president.

Current History Club, sponsored by Miss Helen Sanford, has universal appeal to Walnut Hills students who are vitally interested in the happenings of the world around them. Meetings were presided over by Bob McGill, who was aided by the club's other officers, Stanley Goodman, Charles Docter, Phyllis Root, and Nancy Barrows. Current problems such as communism in China and reconstruction of Europe, were discussed by the club this year. Many noted guests, including Dr. Samuel Wohl and Mr. William Hessler, have spoken at the meetings. In the question periods at the end of each meeting the participants acquire useful knowledge about important questions as well as respect for the opinions of others and the ability to express their own ideas clearly.

"Early and Late Debating To and Fro"

STUDENT FEDERALISTS: B. Dykstra, J. Butler, J. Brennen, M. Harris, M. McCullom, B. Sasser.

The members of the Student Federalists are those students who are interested in the ever-increasingly important matter of world peace. Under the leadership of Mrs. Fannie Barnett, these junior members of the United World Federalists seek to understand the present conditions in the world. Peace, to them, is not only the absence of war, but a positive presence of justice, law, and order. The president of the Walnut Hills club, Marcia Harris, stated that the immediate mission of the Student Federalists is to spread their ideas, particularly among the youth of the nation.

Through the Debate Club students learn to speak clearly, forcefully, and directly to the point since their time for speaking is limited. Debates are given in front of an audience, and this factor contributes to the development of poise. The necessity of answering an opponent's unexpected questions teaches the debater to think quickly. Thus the qualities gained by the members are those which will benefit them all their lives.

The Debate Club discusses each year a wide variety of subjects ranging from those of world magnitude to those of immediate importance only to high school students. This year, under the guidance of Miss Dorothy Levensohn, and under the direction of Claude Gruen, the president, the club considered such topics as "Should We Give Aid to China?" and "Resolved: That Sororities and Fraternities in High Schools Are Beneficial."

In addition to these activities, the members of the Debate Club also find time to sponsor several Town Meeting programs. Presented early in the fall, the first of these on the topic, "Who Is the Demogogue?", was broadcast as a Junior Town Meeting of the Air.

Reorganized two years ago after a period of inactivity, the Junior and Senior Latin Club have as their advisers the entire Latin Department. The purpose of the clubs is to further the students' understanding of Latin. Talks by outside speakers, plays, and other educational programs are presented to both groups. Each spring a banquet is held, featuring Roman food and observing Roman customs. One of the highlights for the Junior Latin Club was a Christmas party where entertainment centered around Roman customs. This year Janet Lux was president of the senior group; Joel Wittstein, of the junior group.

RENCH Club—the very mention of the name should be an inspiration to every struggling French student; an invitation to that select society should be his goal. The meetings of Le Cercle Francais are held at Mrs. Ashbrook's home; they are informal gatherings designed to give the interested student an opportunity to improve his conversational French. Lest the the uninitated be frightened by that remark, it may be mentioned that even a few seniors, who shall be nameless, have been guilty of such charming phrases as "Passez moi les donuts", or "Movezavous, je want to sit down." French club offers an opportunity, often lacking in a high school course, to practice what is learned. Mrs. Ashbrook deserves her pupils' thanks for giving them of her time, her hospitality, and those wonderful doughnuts.

Camera Club offers opportunity for students interested in photography to get together to discuss their hobby. Inactive since 1944, the club resumed its activities last year under the guidance of Mr. J. Stanley Leeds. Outside speakers are brought in to teach the finer points of photography, and contests are held to encourage use of initiative in composition and lighting.

Under the direction of Mrs. Ida B. Carmichael, members of Crafters' Club painstakingly model, fire, and glaze ceramics and tool leather. The big event of the year, the Scholastic Art Exhibit, calls forth extra work for the members to complete their entries. Each year the club holds an exhibit of all work done, so that parents, teachers, and pupils can see the excellent art and craftsmanship of the year.

Every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday morning, a member of Radio Guild presents the news over the school's public address system. This pupil checks the morning newspaper and writes his own script with the guidance of Mr. Wayne Gregory, the adviser. This year for the first time, a contest was held to select the two most outstanding announcers of the year. The winners were Joyce Foster and Jack Callaghan.

Every Tuesday afternoon finds members of the Chess Club, sponsored by Mrs. Laura Renfrow, deeply absorbed in their game of skill. Tournaments are held among the members of the club, and, later in the year, with other schools.

"To Glad? Your Ears,

CHOIR, or the A Cappella Choir as it is more formally known, is the largest completely vocal musical organization in the school. There are about one hundred and fifty members of the choir who are sophomores, juniors, and seniors. The choir meets as a whole three times a week, and the boys and girls rehearse separately once weekly. Choir rehearsals are held during the fifth period, but special practice sessions after school hours are necessary immediately preceding important musical events.

The choir not only sings at school functions, but often appears before outside groups such as churches, business clubs, and various other types of organizations. Here at school it performs on such occasions as Christmas Assembly, Spring Concert, and occasional assemblies. This year, as is traditional, choir members opened the impressive Christmas Homecoming Assembly by marching with lighted torches down the aisles of the darkened auditorium as they sang "Adeste Fideles". An assembly consisting of songs typical of different regions of the United States was presented to the school by the choir in the fall.

Mrs. Nelle Custer Murphy directs the choir, which is divided into eight parts: first and second sopranos, altos, tenors, and basses. The members are selected by Mrs. Murphy in the spring after tryouts are held. Every member has the opportunity and experience of directing the choir sometime during the school year. Only a part of the choir, the "regulars", robe and sing publicly; these are usually five people chosen from each section. Every other year the Walnut Hills choir joins other high school choirs to sing in the May Festival. In the alternate years a Choir Festival in which all the high school choirs participate is held. This year one of these Choir Festivals was held, and singers from Walnut Hills played a prominent part in it.

The A Cappella Choir performs a great service to Walnut Hills by contributing beauty to many occasions and increasing appreciation of fine music among the students.

Under the direction of Mr. Zaner Zerkle, the band and the orchestra have developed into organizations of great distinction at Walnut Hills. This year they presented an instrumental concert to raise extra funds and took a prominent part in the annual Spring Concert. Making public appearances at numerous football games as well as playing for pep rallies and other special occasions kept the band well occupied. As accompanists for school shows, the orchestra has proved to be invaluable. A specially selected group of orchestra members spent long hours rehearsing so as to be able to provide music for the "Walnuts".

To Butch, great guy and a terrific singer, a virtuoso of the voice, and anything else good. Remember the Revues, really great work fella, you'll go far. Keep up the great work fella, you'll go far.

Voices Blended in Sweet Harmony

Two of the most outstanding features of all Walnut Hills' musical programs are the beautiful vocalizations of the Girls' Triple Trio and the Boys' Octette. Chosen by Mrs. Murphy for their ability and interest, these select groups of Choir members have attained the highest vocal honors presented in the school.

Triple Trio consists of nine girls, three singers for each part. Dressed alike, the girls make a favorable impression before their audiences in assemblies, Spring Concert, the Christmas program, and before various outside groups.

Members of the Boys' Octette perfect their harmonized arrangements of many popular and comical songs in early morning practice sessions. The comic arrangements presented by this double quartet never fail to go over with audiences in school performances and outside programs.

Girls' Glee Club rehearses every Monday afternoon from three to four o'clock. Its one hundred members, chosen by try-outs in September, sing with A Cappella Choir in the Christmas assembly and take part in the Spring Concert. Mrs. Nelle C. Murphy directs this club, of which Barbara Upham, Annette Kirstein, Carol Taylor, and Janet Kleesattel were officers this year. Members receive one quarter credit each year and a grade at the end of the year. Glee Club gives girls excellent experience in singing.

Music Appreciation Club is open to all pupils who enjoy hearing, playing, and discussing good music. Its members meet to further their musical understanding under the guidance of Miss Margaret Dunphy. This year speakers and performers explained and illustrated developments in many phases of music. Several alumni also presented programs. Kate Magrish was the club's president; Barbara Upham, Jocelyn Groban, and Jean Fox acted as vice president, secretary, and treasurer respectively.

Of the many musical organizations at Walnut Hills there is one devoted primarily to the seventh and eighth grades. Under the direction of Mrs. Pansy Wildman, the Junior Chorus, consisting of approximately ninety effies and e-flats, gains the experience needed for their future with the upper-school musical groups. This chorus makes its chief contribution to the musical life of the school by singing in the Christmas assembly and the Spring Concert.

TRAFFIC SQUAD: A. Bucove, C. Guertler, J. Potts.

Directors of Swift Motion

Despite snow, sleet, or pouring rain, the faithful members of the traffic squad are at their assigned post every day, directing traffic and guarding the safety of the pupils. Under the supervision of Mr. Henry Schroeder, the traffic squad members are on duty by eight o'clock each morning throughout the school year.

By keeping cars moving steadily through the circle, they hasten the unloading of pupils and prevent traffic tie-ups. Those who walk to school are always assisted in crossing Fernside Place and the entrance to the circle. Thanks to this able squad, there has never been a serious traffic accident of any kind on the school property. In view of all the assistance rendered, squad members truly deserve the certificates of merit awarded them by the governor of Ohio each year.

Bicycle Club is something new to Walnuts Hills. Founded this fall, this club has as its aim the stimulation of interest in the sport of bicycling as well as safety rules which pertain to it.

Under the sponsorship of Miss Margaret S c h w e n k e r, club members cycled to Sharon Woods in the fall and had programs of lectures and movies during the winter.

Spring found them actively cycling again.

Grace and Skill in Action

BOWLING has provided for many of the boys physical relaxation coupled with keen competition against other schools. Sponsored by Mr. James Caldwall, the varsity team is composed of the six bowlers with the highest averages in the practice period; the next six comprise the reserve team. The season, beginning January 1, continues for approximately ten weeks. The highlight of the year's activity is the annual game between the varsity and the bowling members of the faculty.

One, two three, whoops! It's the Dance Club, now under the directorship of Mrs. Montana Jones, where girls from grades nine through twelve perform modern dances interpreting records and stories. Members are chosen for their rhythm and general dancing ability.

The purpose of this enjoyable club is to develop grace and poise and prepare some girls for advanced study in choreography.

The officers for '48-'49 were president, Jean Ross; secretary, Deborah Berman; and piano accompanist, Esther Rita Philips.

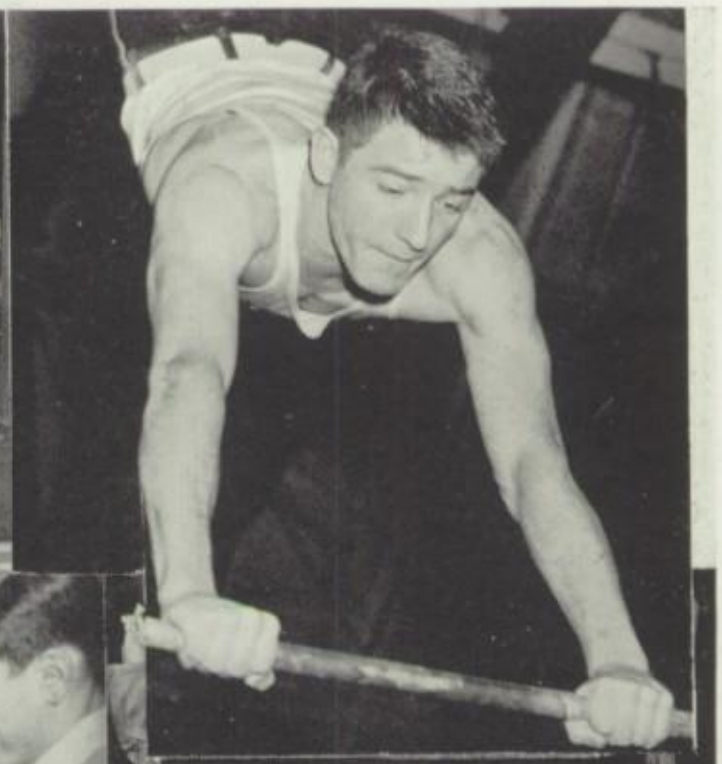
"I Cannot But Remember Such Things Were,

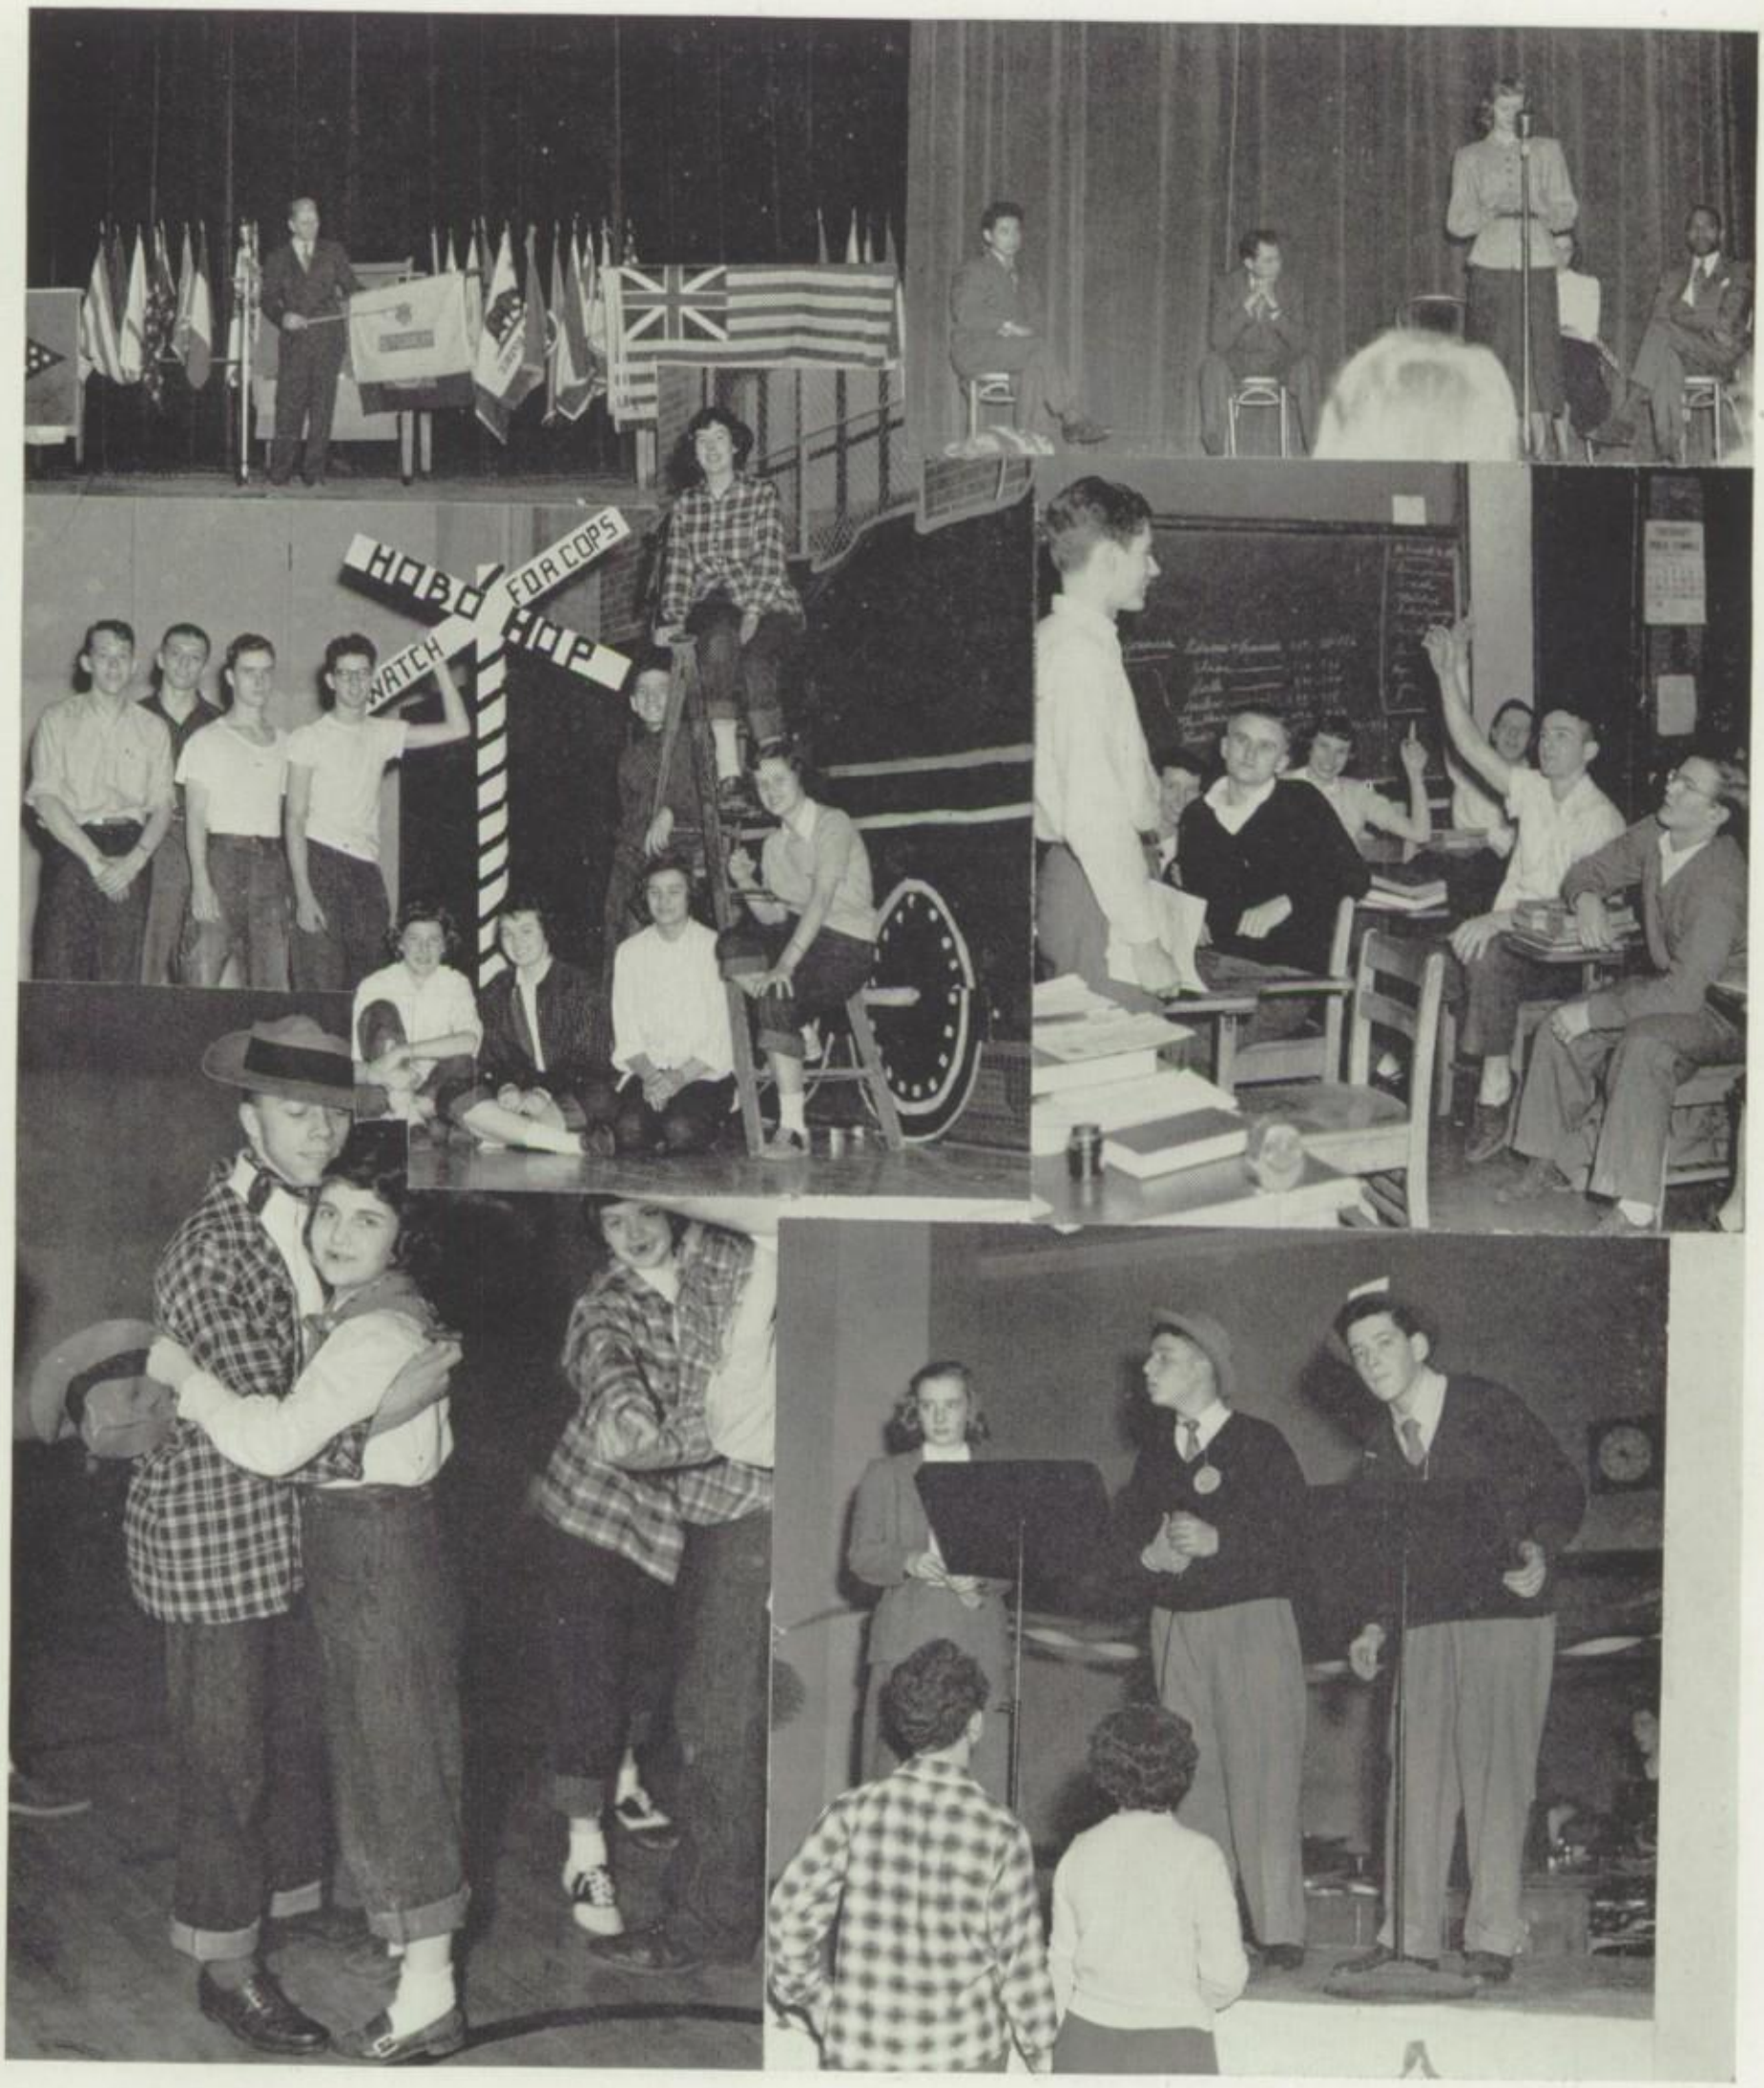
September 1948 to June 1949 is now also a part of our past, but the highlights will always be with us: the GAA sports banquet; busy afternoons in the Remembrancer Room; the contest for Miss Hi-Y; the inspiring message of the Freedom Train; the Big Sister Christmas party; and Choir singing at the Old Folks Home.

That Were Most Precious to Me"



The homecoming assembly with the Choir singing Christmas carols; gym team practices; Mr. Peanuts stalking the halls; Thursday nights in the Chatterbox room; costumed ticket salesmen in the lunchroom proclaiming the merits of "Romeo and Juliet"; excitement backstage; the Shakespearean luncheon.

The thrills and laughs of the basketball game between the faculty and football team where pennies for the Athletic Insurance Fund showered the floor; the wonders of the assembly on light; Joyce Foster and Jack Callaghan winning the Radio Guild contest; the assembly concert on the marimba; cheering the basketball team on to victory



The assembly on flags; the inspiring message of the Panel of Americans; the novelties of the Hobo Hop; discussions and decisions in Student Council meetings; the huge success of the Freshman Dance—all memorable moments of a past year that have become an unforgettable part of our lives. The best of the year 1948-'49, always a part of our present.

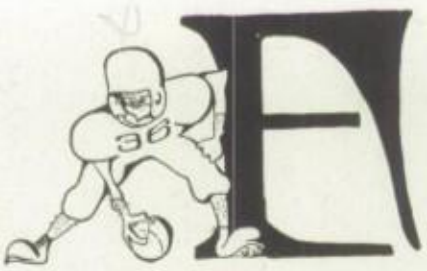
Spirit, Speed, and Strength



FINE DEFENSIVE play plus a well rounded offensive featured Eagle football during the 1948 Grid-season, which saw the Eagles wind up in a three-way tie with Hughes and Withrow for second place in the P.H.S.L. Plagued by injuries to key players for most of the season, the Eagles nevertheless, collected an overall record of five victories as against four defeats. Coach Willard Bass's gridders, led by co-captains Bill Gleason and Jean Toepfert, highlighted their season with a 7-6 upset over a previously undefeated Withrow eleven. A final tribute was paid to the Eagle squad when Bob Stargle was chosen first stringe end on the All-City team and John Goldsberry and Bob Maehr received honorable mention.

Although the Eagles outgained the Spartans, they failed to win the game. They drove 80 yards in the third quarter, but lost the ball on a fumble. In the fourth quarter Toepfert ended a long Eagle drive with a touchdown.

W. H. 20 Norwood 7

After a scoreless first half, Taylor started the Blue and Gold drive to victory by running 27 yards for the first touchdown. Broughton carried a punt 90 yards to score again. Stirsman took Greiwe's pass for the Eagles' third touchdown. The two extra points were kicked by Maehr.

W. H. 18 Central 7

The Eagles gained over 300 yards to Central's 50. Taylor scored two touchdowns, and Goldsberry carried Greiwe's pass over the line for the third.

W. H. 12 Central 0

W. H. 7 Withrow 0

Broughton took the opening kickoff 95 yards for the first touchdown against Central. Toepfert carried the ball for the second. The touchdown against Withrow was also scored by Toepfert. Neither opposing team was able to gain much ground against Walnut Hills.

W. H. O St. Xavier 6

In the first quarter St. X scored a touchdown on a 25-yard pass. The Eagles dominated the second half of the game. In the third quarter they marched 85 yards to the two-yard line where the drive was stopped by a fumble.

W. H. 14 Woodward 6

Goldsberry carried over passes from Greiwe for the two Eagle touchdowns. Maehr kicked the two extra points.

W. H. 0 Hughes 8

An Eagle drive begun by passes from Haarmeyer to Stargel was stopped by interception. Hughes scored on a 45-yard end run.

W. H. 7 Withrow 6

The Eagles, in excellent form, gained 358 yards and 18 first downs compared to Withrow's 93 yards. Withrow, victorious in all six of its previous games, was unable to stop Walnut Hills. Bear scored on a sneak to climax an 85-yard drive; Maehr kicked the winning extra point. An Eagle drive gained 70 yards to reach the one-foot line before being stopped by the end of the first half. In the third quarter Withrow scored their touchdown, but failed to make the extra point. The fourth quarter saw another Eagle drive, which put W. H. on the Withrow 15-yard line when the game ended.

W. H. 7 Western Hills 12

In a sea of mud W. H. lost its chance to tie for the PHSL championship. After an 85-yard drive Toepfert scored a touchdown, after which Maehr kicked the extra point. However, Western Hills' passing attack spelled doom for the Eagles' chances, and Western Hills became the undisputed champion team.

This fall the reserve football team, coached by Mr. G. Allen Davis, won but one game while losing two and tying three. Perry Levine played outstanding ball in the backfield; Dick Byers, an end, was adept at receiving Huddy Baumes' passes. When the season was over, the Eagles had defeated Norwood, lost to Purcell and Western Hills, and tied Hughes, Withrow, and Central Vocational.

Although this year's freshman football team failed to win a single one of its four games, its more than twenty members played hard and gained valuable experience for future years. Stan Levensohn, end Tom Green, and tackle Ron Wilson were particularly outstanding. The team, coached by Mr. L. Dean Giacometti, bowed to Western Hills with a score of 19-0; Withrow, 13-6; Central 31-0; and Hughes 33-0.

It's Half-Time!! As every Walnut Hills student knows, the Band is about to make another appearance to delight all those who appreciate rhythmic precision. And here they come!! Led down the field by a bevy of high-stepping majorettes and Blue and Gold musicians are about to begin another dazzling performance of intricate formations and skillful baton twirling. Meanwhile, that animated group of contortionists known as the Cheerleading Squad is doing its part to arouse the spirit of the Eagle fans. Their co-ordinated antics draw enthusiastic outbursts from the eager rooters. All through the game they keep school spirit at a high pitch. The thanks of the entire student body are due to the members of both these groups for making the football season so enjoyable.

On the Hardwood Show Your Skill

This year saw Walnut Hills relinquish the PHSL championship for the first time in three years. Nevertheless, the Eagles were no pushovers, and Eagle fans saw plenty of real basketball during the season, with the squad ending up a 12-7 regular season record. Coach Willard Bass's boys started the season with four straight victories after which they wound up in a tailspin which left the hoopsters with seven losses out of the next ten games. But, pulling out of this onslaught, the Eagles ended the season with five straight victories, including a win over highly touted Norwood High. Besides being the only local team to beat Norwood, the Eagles registered over always powerful Hamilton Catholic, Roger Bacon, Wyoming, and Western Hills.

Altogether, fifteen players saw action during the 1948-49 season. Co-captains this year were Ben Yee and John Goldsberry, each of whom, a dependable player himself, gave much support to the team. Leading the Eagles in scoring again for the second year was Don Greiwe, who performed at guard and forward. Junior Don Bear, who also plays guard or forward with equal ability, and senior Claude Itskin, former Hartwell star, rounded out the early-season starting line-up. About mid-season capable substitutes Dick Byers, Earl Dunaway, and Bill Rank also had some starting assignments. Dick Murphy and Bob Wuerfel turned in fine performances, and Dick Sand, Dick Stirsman, and Jean Toepfert also saw a good lead of action on the court, together with Dick Hall and Eddie Chaikin, reserves who were moved up.

W. H. vs. Roger Bacon: 39-33

After overcoming a 10-point deficit, the Eagles went on to win their first game of the season over a scrappy Spartan quintet.

W. H. vs. Plainville: 59-56

Playing on the tricky Plainville "stage-gym" court, the Eagles managed to nose out the Blue Devils for the second win of the season.

W. H. vs. Hamilton Catholic: 60-43

With the team playing its best game of the young season, the Eagle hoopsters walloped last year's state finalists 60-43.

W. H. vs. Withrow: 38-33; 33-43

The Eagles opened the defense of their PHSL crown with a victory over the Withrow Tigers; but later, in their third clash of the season, the Tigers upset Walnut Hills 43-33.

W. H. vs. Woodward: 39-55; 43-31

The Eagle win-streak was stopped at four when the Woodward Bulldogs upset W. H. in a game that saw the second-stringers play almost the entire second half. In the return match the entire Eagle squad saw action as the W. H. Cagers, playing inspired ball, downed the Bulldogs 43-31.

(Norwood Tournament)

W. H. 52 Withrow 28; W. H. 44 Norwood 57

The Norwood Indians won their own tournament for the second straight year by defeating Walnut Hills in the final game. In the opening game the Eagles led throughout to down the Tigers of Withrow.

W. H. vs. Hughes 45-47; 43-32
The Eagles lost a hard-fought game to the Big Reds, after staging a second-half rally. In their second encounter, the Eagles avenged the earlier defeat, running over Hughes 43-32.

W. H. vs. Hamilton Public: 33-55
The Eagles traveled up Hamilton way only to meet a stinging defeat at the hands of Hamilton's Big Blue.

W. H. vs. Western Hills 41-47; 42-39
For the fourth straight time the Eagles tasted defeat, this time in their first meet with Western Hills. Later, in one of the closest games of the season, the Eagle basketeers marched to a 42-39 triumph over the Maroons.

W. H. vs. Central Vocational: 68-43; 48-44
A spirited Walnut Hills team with a revamped line-up won their second PHSL game in the first conflict with Central Vocational. Then the Eagles finished the season by downing the Hornets for the second time.

W. H. vs. Wyoming: 38-37
In a hotly contested game the Eagle hoopsters downed an aggressive Wyoming quintet on the Cowboys' home court.

W. H. vs. Purcell: 32-54
The Cavaliers of Purcell broke loose to trample Walnut Hills by a 22-point margin.

W. H. vs. Norwood: 59-31
The Blue and Gold cagers walloped the Indians of Norwood, avenging the 55-42 setback in the Invitational Tournament earlier in the year.

Students of Hardy Endurance

RECORDS for the reserve basketball team show a tally of nine victories and eight defeats. Highlights of the season were the two wins over Western Hills reserves, who won all of their games except those with Walnut Hills. Under co-captains Schneebeck, forward, and Shuger, guard, the boys played well and gained the experience that will make many of them the backbone of next year's varsity squad.

The freshman basketball team enjoyed a very successful season as it won the PHSL tournament. In compiling an 11-6 record, the freshmen lost only one game (to Western Hills) in PHSL competition to gain second place in league standings. The starting team consisted of guards Sieber and Fowler, forwards Buss and Van Lokeren, and center Zeff. Also seeing much action were Bennett, Felix, Gradsky, Holmes, Krieger, Puls, Rich, and Starr.

Developing Might and Muscle

Long known as the outstanding sport for development of muscular control, timing, and co-ordination, gymnastics is represented at Walnut Hills by the capable Senior and Junior Teams. Under the guidance of Coach Carl Varrelmann, Walnut Hills "tourners" practice levers, handstands, and giant swings throughout the fall and winter, assembling beautiful exercises with which to intrigue the judges in the five city-wide gym meets. Difficulty of the stunts, fluency of execution, grace, originality, and beauty are all taken into consideration by the judges. This year the Senior Team, heavily beset by injuries, captured fourth, while the Juniors placed second.

The volleyball team confined its activities to intramural practice this year, since the other high schools did not organize teams.

"Hardy and Undoubted Champions"

This year Walnut Hills' swimming team, coached by Mr. G. Allen (Whitey) Davis, defeated every team it met. The swimmers took top honors in every PHSL meet and also the District meet. St. Xavier, Hughes, Norwood, Withrow, and Western Hills bowed before the Blue and Gold in dual meets, while the Eagles gained 201 points in three PHSL meets. In the District meet the Eagles showed exceptional power with 47 points, second-place Western Hills earning 31 points in comparison.

Don Hill set a PHSL record of 54.5 seconds in the 100-yard freestyle. In the dual Xavier meet the Walnut Hills relay team set a pool record. In the District meet Hill again set a record in the 100-yard freestyle, this time doing the stint in 54.8 seconds. Don also took a first place in the 50-yard freestyle. Every boy who place in this meet was permitted to compete in the state meet, the result of which was unknown at press time.

"Hold Acquaintance with the Waves"

The junior swimming team followed in the wake of the senior team, finishing this season with an unblemished record. They set back Hughes 32-7, Withrow 27-12, and Western Hills 36-3. They became PHSL champs, ringing up a total of 162 points in the three meets. Although there was no junior division in the district meet, some of the boys on the junior squad swam with the seniors for this event. Freshman Mark Thoman came in third in this meet. Don Rose, Louis Silverman, and Emery Zimmer proved that they will contribute to future Eagle swimming teams. Other boys who contributed greatly to the Eagles' fine showing were Alan Alexander, who took a first in the breast stroke in the District meet; Jay Congelliere, who swam the new 150-yard individual medley; and seniors Al Byers, Doug Cherry, Dave Sanders, Ralph Heyman, and Pete Swenty.

Returning next year will be the senior back stroker Buzzy Bullock, the aforementioned Hill, Alexander, and Congelliere, Joe Ulmer, Ronnie Thie, and Mark Thoman. Thie and Ulmer usually swim in the relays.

Much credit it due "Whitey" Davis for his excellent coaching this year. This was the second consecutive year that the seniors have taken the crown in the senior division and the thirteenth year for the juniors (even though the smiling Mr. Davis hasn't been with Walnut Hills that long!)

Speed and Grace Under a Burning Sun

This year's cross country team, coached by Mr. Carl Varrelmann, was bolstered by only two returning lettermen, Lee Cooper and Dick Sands. Newcomers Claude Itskin and Rudy Lyles were the team's high scorers, wining two of the team's three gold medals in the district meet. The team as a whole participated in five meets: three city, finishing third; one district, placing fourth; and a triangular invitational with Purcell and Norwood in which top honors were taken. The Eagle harriers established a school record by placing three boys among the first ten in the Southwestern District meet held at Avon Fields.

The track team, captained by Gil Schiff, had not participated in meets prior to press time. However, their plans for the spring included participation in three triangular meets of the six held in the city.

"I Have Some Sport in Hand"

Along with the first breath of spring comes the ringing crack of bats against balls and the pound of feet as eager athletes work out, hoping to be awarded a regular place on the team. Coach Ray Farnham places the successful ones under the able captaincy of Bill Gleason, veteran catcher. Then follow the weeks of grueling practice: chasing grounders, sliding to bases, pulling down fly balls, and batting long, low two-baggers. At last the fully trained Eagle club takes its place on the field, amid the cheers of the baseball-minded Walnut Hills fans.

THE TENNIS team, undefeated for four straight years, has a record of which the netmen may well be proud. Although they will miss the services of Tony Trabert '48, who held top honors in the state singles for three consecutive years, the team early in the spring promises to maintain their enviable reputation. Coached for the second year by Mr. L. Dean Giacometti, the varsity for 1949 will contain six or seven lettermen to handle from ten to twenty matches.

Coached by Mr. James Caldwell, the golf team displays fine spirit on the green. The four-man varsity team usually begin practice on its home course, Losantiville, the first Monday in April and enters into full-scale competition on the fifteenth. While the golf season has not opened by press time, the squad is scheduled to play fifteen matches, five in the PHSL and ten outside the league. The culmination of the season's efforts will be the Southwest District Tournament.

Training for Future Glory

Seventh and eighth grade boys train for the future in intramural sports.

You don't need to be a senior, six feet two, or weigh three hundred pounds in order to play basketball and football, or indulge in some other sport. Intramurals were organized to give boys who don't make varsity or reserve, for one reason or another, the opportunity to take part in athletics.

Because of limited space and time, membership in the intramural basketball league is limited to the seventh grade. The boys play once a week and practice once also.

There are two fields open for football; thus the seventh, eighth, and ninth grades have opportunity to join in this activity.
There are three leagues, one for each grade, and twenty teams. The boys practice on the averages of once every eight school days.

Other intramural sports are softball, which an unlimited number may play, and track and swimming. Mr. Carl Varrelmann and Mr. G. Allen Davis are in charge of track and swimming. Mr. Harry Hannum supervises football, baseball, and softball.

Ladies with Laurels

The GAA Board is a group of girls elected to lead the GAA successfully through the school year. There are sixteen members on the board, advised by Miss Mary V. Sellers. During the year there is an Inter-high board meeting in which the GAA officers representing the city's high schools meet to discuss their different problems.

Among the honors of the GAA, the school letter is one of the greatest. The girls receive their letters when they have gained 1,500 points. It takes the average girl three years of hard work to earn her letter. When the GAA board is chosen, the letter girls are given special consideration because the letter girl is one who is an active, hard-working, sincere sportswoman.

"We Are Graced with Wreaths of Victory"

Each year eleven girls, the best of all participants in intramural hockey, are chosen as members of the honor hockey team. This year these girls defeated Western Hills, but lost to Withrow in the annual hockey playday held here. The exciting post-season game with Western Hills ended in a scoreless tie. In its final game of the year, before the GAA Fall Sports Banquet, the honor team defeated an incomplete team of six alumnae.

In the lower school play-off to determine soccer champions, the eighth-grade team defeated the seventh-grade team in two successive games, giving them the necessary margin for victory.

Girls' basketball and volleyball games take place after school on Tuesday and Thursday for the upper school, and on Mondays and Wednesday for the lower school. The Girls' Athletic Association sponsors the games, and the gym teachers serve as referees. Volleyball is played in December and January; basketball, in February and March. First there are several practices. Then all who have been actively interested are placed on teams. For several weeks a tournament is played between these intramural teams. When the winner has been determined, the gym teachers, the class managers, and the team captains make recommendations for the class teams. Then follow class practices and a tournament to ascertain the best class team, which is awarded an honor at the Spring Banquet. Finally an honor team is chosen to play with other schools. Once a year, too, girls from all Cincinnati public schools get together to hold a play day for each of these sports. Girls who have played on intramural teams are eligible to participate on these days.

SWIMMING for girls begins early in November with practices each Tuesday and Thursday. In January a mass meet is held in which every girl with the required number of practices may compete. Swimmers with the best records in the mass meet are chosen for class teams. Again after practices, a meet in which the class teams engage each other is held. From the best swimmers on these teams, an honor team is then chosen. This team takes part in the swimming playday held early in March, and it also engages other schools' teams in meets during the spring. Life-saving classes, instructed by Miss Mary V. Sellers, are held in the fall and spring of each year if fifteen or more students enroll. This year there was only one class, held in the spring, meeting at the girls' pool each Monday.

At the completion of the regular after-school swimming program, girls may swim after school and pass stroke tests in order to win GAA points. At this time girls may also swim to make up regular swimming periods or for pleasure.

TABLE TENNIS CHAMPS: B. J. Knight, H. L. Seidler.

Table tennis, badminton, and tennis, the individual sports, are played in tournaments which are open to all upper-school members of the Girls' Athletic Association. The tournaments are sponsored and cups and awards are provided by the GAA, but the games are under the complete supervision of the students, with student officials. There is no particular time for these individual sports as there is for team sports; the girls arrange for the time and the official among themselves.

Table tennis tournaments are held in February and March, before and after school. There is a singles tournament and a mixed-doubles tournament. Fifty to sixty girls participate. Helen Louise Seidler was the GAA board member in charge of table tennis and badminton.

Badminton season is in April and May. There is a singles tournament and a girls' doubles tournament. Forty to fifty girls take part in these games.

The season for the tennis tournament extends from Easter to the end of the year. There is only a singles tournament in tennis. Carol Taylor was in charge this year.

Merry Sports of Spring

For the girls interested in archery GAA makes arrangement for practice sessions with the bow and arrow every Monday and Wednesday during the spring. Those girls who have been present for the required number of practices are then eligible for participation in the annual tournament. The winner of this contest is awarded a medal at the Spring Banquet of the association. Archery is supervised almost entirely by the students themselves; this year Lois Ungar was the GAA board member in charge. Spring brings many members of the Girls' Athletic Association out on the field for baseball practice. After a few weeks teams are formed composed of the girls who have attended a certain number of practices. These teams vie with each other in a tournament. At the conclusion of the tournament, those girls in each class who have shown marked ability in the intramural games are selected by their team captains and class managers to make up the class teams. Then follows a tournament to select the honor baseball team. The members of this team receive recognition at the Spring Banquet.

* Plays host to mothers of new students at an informal tea, each fall, to acquaint them with the school, its teachers and administrators.

* Fosters a closer relationship and better understanding between parents and teachers through an annual "Parents' Night."

* Helps support the insurance program for members of the athletic teams and provides a physician at all football games.

* Provides volunteers from its membership to assistant in the school's cafeteria.

* Provides special equipment not otherwise available. (Recent example: new band uniforms).

* Contributes to scholarship and loan funds which permit worthy graduates to continue their education.

* Cooperates with Student Council in such projects as providing accommodations in homes for several hundred delegates to the recent convention held here.

* Cooperates with the Principal in securing needed improvements and services. (This year, it was influential in obtaining better supervision of crossings and approaches to school, new water heater in boys' shower rooms, improvements in parking lot.

* Through its elected board of 12 parents, it is constantly on the alert to represent the best interests of Walnut Hills High School to the Superintendant of Schools and Board of Education.

WHAT MAKES ADVERTISING PAY?

Two kinds of people make advertising pay:

1. The millions influenced by it;
2. The few who prepare it.

How much the "millions" are influenced depends largely on how well the "few" prepare it.

Advertising people, not personalities, make up Perry-Brown, Inc. They prepare advertising not as individualists, but as a multi-minded, creative, production team. They work as a unit. They practice this philosophy:

"Do THE job, not just a job.

"Do it complete.

"Do it in time.

"Do it on time."

We appreciate the responsibility of being of the "few" who help make advertising pay.

Study Bells to Telephone Bells

A salute and best wishes to graduates of 1949. We hope some of you will join the telephone organization, become imbued with its traditional spirit of service, and remain to help provide fast, reliable communications through the years.

It is a good place to work, with good pay, excellent working conditions, vacations, thrift plans, medical service, Company paid pensions and sickness-accident-death insurance.

There is great opportunity for young men and women in helping to build telephone communications of the future.

Acknowledgements

There are many factors which influence the production of a year book. The '49 Remembrancer would never come into being had it not been for:

the interest, advice, and assistance of Mr. William A. Ruff of the Cincinnati Process Engraving Company the infinite patience and accuracy of the Messrs. Shellhouse of the Oxford Printing Company the excellent photography of Mr. Norman Bush and Mr. Dan McTamney

the help of Mr. E. J. Boylson of the D. J. Malloy plant of the S. K. Smith Company in the choice and production of the cover the skill and promptness of Mr. Joseph Meyer of the Progress Book Binding Company the aid of Metzger and Metzger Studio in developing and taking pictures the suggestions and assistance of Mr. Edward Dauterich, the art adviser the wonderful co-operation of the faculty and student body and last, but very far from least, the inspiration, guidance, unfailing industry and good humor of Miss Mary Louise Schroth, the adviser.

For all of this interest, co-operation, and guidance, we the editors would like to express our sincerest and warmest thanks.
